Senate Battle Over World Court May Upset Plans

Fight Over American Entrance Into World Court a Replica of League of Nations Embroglio—Borah Will Fight to Last Ditch.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov 30.—The shadow of a great senate battle, every whit as bitter and as intensive as the memorable fight over the League of Nations, began to loom today over the congress that meets next week.

It involves the question of American entrance into the World Court and the tightening of battle lines in the past few weeks convinced administration leaders today that the conflict is to be one of epic proportions. The leaders are worried, not so much because of the probable outcome of the fight, but rather because the battle is looming so large on the senate calendar that it may upset carefully laid plans in other directions—tax reduction, agricultural relief, etc.

To all intents and purposes, the battle is to be a replica of the League of Nations embroglio. The elements for and against are largely the same, the arguments for and against strikingly similar, the feeling on both sides is just ts intense—and the veterans of that Titanic conflict remember how the whole business of congress was thrown out of gear for months while the battle raged.

While surface indications point to the senate's agreeing to join the court on the terms contained in the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge program, actually administration leaders are none too sanguine.

Borah Will Fight.

Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, has remained deaf to every entreaty that he abandon his intentions of fighting the court to the last ditch. For weeks the Idaho senator has been preparing for the issue, and he has drawn to his support the same indomitable band of league foes who overcome seemingly the same great odds in the league fight. Johnson of California and Reed of Missouri, to mention only two. Where the opposition is less formidable the court advocates would consider victory inevitable. As it is they believe they will be successful, but they fear it may be at the price of emasculating reservations to which the court itself will never agree, thus achieving a round about victory for the irreconcilables.

An effort on the part of the court advocates to get from Borah a promise on this matter of reservations resulted today in failure.

Borah Makes No Promises.

In an open letter to the Idaho senator, a number of league advocates, among them Newton D. Baker, Josephus Daniels, John Grier Hibben, Cleveland H. Dodge and President Angell of Yale, said "it is understood more than two-thirds of the senate will vote for American adherence if given an opportunity." Then referring to reservations, the letter said: "To attempt to defeat it (the court) by indirection will be to oppose the plainly expressed will of the American people. We appeal to you to put no obstruction in the way of that opportunity."

To this Borah replied tersely today: "I'll make no promises regarding my course on this issue."

The anti-courters found a forceful ally today in Representative George H. Tinkham (R.) of Massachusetts, who although a supporter of President Coolidge in almost every other respect, differs violently with the administrations' espousal of the court.

Tinkham's Opinion.

Tinkham announced he would introduce on the opening day of congress a resolution providing for the establishment of an impartial international tribunal and the codification by it of international law. "No American who is opposed to entering the League of Nations," said Tinkham, "should support the proposal for a clandestine entry by way of the world court."

Tinkham pointed out that the court was organized by the league, that its officers, and that it is now operating under a code of international law established by the league.

As at present constituted, he said, the court could be compelled to sanction the French war on Syria, the Franco-Spanish war against the Riffs, and as a subscriber to the court, the United States would be morally bound to support those decisions.

"Our entrance also means," said Tinkham, "the surrender of the Monroe doctrine to another jurisdiction than our own."

Masonic Dance On December 11

One of the biggest events of the winter's social season will be the Masonic dance at the state armory on Friday evening, December 11, under the auspices of the Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M. The proceeds of the dance will be for the Masonic Temple building fund. The committees in charge of the affair are working hard to make it one of the biggest events held in some time.

An Ambulance Call.

On Saturday the city ambulance removed Dennis Boyle from the Van-Buss Hotel to the Kingston City Hospital.

Settlement of Coal Strike Is Up to Operators

Miners' Union Accepts Pinchot Peace Plan—Attitude of Operators May Be Determined Today at Secret Meeting of Warriner and Inglis.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Harrisburgh, Nov. 30.—Settlement of the strike in the hard coal fields, which has been in effect since September 1, depended largely today upon the immediate attitude of the operators in view of the prompt acceptance of Governor Gifford Pinchot's eleven point peace plan by the miners' union.

The miners' acceptance was provisional but at any rate it was a conciliatory move. The operators, so far, have elected to remain away from Pinchot's conference table.

Developments have followed each other swiftly in the last twenty-four hours, chief of which are:

Accepts Peace Terms.

1. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, made public a letter to Pinchot accepting the governor's peace terms as a basis of settlement and offering to meet the operators and begin negotiations if they likewise signify their acceptance of the plan as a basis.

Operators Meet.

2. The operators were to meet today in Philadelphia to consider the situation. They were represented as being as taking a position of resenting being "stampeded into action."

Pinchot On Tour.

3. Governor Pinchot, after submitting his proposals for peace, is today on a tour of the state institutions which will keep him away a week, his first stop being Pittsburgh. The governor, however, made it plain that he would return to Harrisburg immediately at any time it is indicated his presence is needed in bringing about settlement of the strike.

The situation this morning was this: The miners are willing to go ahead with Pinchot's plan as a basis for peace, the operators are not, or at any rate are not going to be rushed into a resumption of negotiations with the miners.

Pinchot's Proposals.

Governor Pinchot's proposals call for immediate resumption of mining and the setting up of a board of investigation and award, which would have power to increase wages at this time, or within the five years the proposed agreement would run, provided such increase would not increase the cost of coal to the public.

Also, under the proposals, an operator would be compelled to assign a small amount of a miner's wages as union dues upon his written request. Furthermore, there would also be a conference to equalize wages and adjust working conditions.

Lewis Accepts.

In accepting Pinchot's proposals as a basis for settlement of the strike, Lewis wrote: "We stand ready at any time to meet in joint conference with the representatives of the anthracite operators to negotiate an agreement which shall encompass the points set forth by you. Promptly following such agreement upon the part of the operators, we will arrange for a resumption of mining at the anthracite collieries at the earliest possible date."

The governor proposed "immediate" resumption of work. The miners made it plain that they stand ready to resume work at once on the concluding of a definite contract between the operators and themselves and not before.

Operators Silent.

The operators have made no outward movement for acceptance or rejection of Pinchot's proposals. Several operators are known to hold that the Pinchot plan is "not economically sound." They contend that its acceptance would mean the industry would have to carry an additional burden of approximately $1,000,000,000 over the five term embodied in the proposal. Added to this sum, they say, would be the amount the board of award might allow the miners. The operators prefer to settle on a basis whereby wages could be adjusted according to normal fluctuations in costs of coal production.

Hold Conlon For Grand Jury

Edward Conlon a hotel keeper at Shandaken, was brought to the Ulster county jail Sunday by State Trooper Hopkins and Deputy Sheriff Stapleton. Conlon is charged with assault in the first degree and was committed to await the action of the grand jury by Judge H. W. Misner of the town of Shandaken.

It is alleged that Conlon used a blackjack on the head of a man named Midley who runs a hotel at what is known as the "Island," and pulled a revolver out of his pocket and threatened to shoot Ray Decker, a hotel keeper of Big Indian.

Conlon is a former resident of this city and conducted what was known as the Crown Steel Inn, near North Front street.

Four Below at Saranac.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Four below zero weather was registered here last night.

East Kingston Road Covered by Big River of Clay

Thousands of Tons at Terry's Brickyard on North Street Slid Out Saturday Night Covering Road to Depth of Twenty Feet—Several Buildings Demolished.

Moving with resistless force, a huge river of clay moved out of the clay bank at the Terry Brothers brickyard on North street about 9:30 o'clock Saturday evening, covering North street for a distance of about five hundred feet to a depth of from ten to twenty feet, and shutting off all communication with East Kingston on that road until a path is shoveled through the huge pile. All traffic that has been using the lower road to East Kingston is now forced to go by way of the Flatbush road.

Slide Moved 1,000 Feet.

Last week was a minor slide at the clay bank when considerable tonnage was loosened, but the big slide of Saturday evening came without warning and moved fully a thousand or more feet before it stopped within fifty feet of the main sheds on the brickyard.

Mass Moved Big Building.

Everything in its path was swept away as the huge soggy river of clay moved forward. A large frame building used as a warehouse was pushed from its foundations and partly buried and it was thrown to one side by the moving mass. Another large shed used for parking cars was swept under and only a beam here and there that had been thrown to the top are visible.

Office Buried From Sight.

The company's office is completely buried from sight under tons of clay, and gangs of men are digging down to the roof to uncover it and get into the building.

So powerful was the moving mass of clay that a large brick building on the opposite side of the road toward the river was crushed in as the clay slid into the building.

Poles Snapped Off at Butts.

Telephone poles and poles carrying electric current wires and cables were snapped off at the butts by the moving mass, and Saturday night and Sunday morning proved a wild one for the repair gangs of the electric light and telephone company, who worked long hours repairing the damage to the wiring system which had plunged the brickyard section in darkness when the poles were snapped off.

Some of the wires carried a 13,000 voltage, and to avoid anyone being injured they had to be restrung as soon as possible. Working with all the speed possible new poles were erected and wires strung on them.

The slide also placed the telephone system in that section of the city out of commission until repairs could be made to the wiring.

Brick Production Crippled.

The slide has crippled the output of the brickyard and according to one of the members of the firm it will cut down the production at least 50,000 brick a day until the yard can be cleaned up and operation resumed.

Scene of Former Slide.

The slide Saturday occurred in practically the same place as the big slide of five years ago, which shut off all traffic on North street for some time. The slide at that time was a large one, but the slide Saturday was even larger and will take considerably more time to clean up.

Tigar's East Kingston bus line, which has been going out North street, is now forced to use the Flatbush road and will continue using it until North street is again open to traffic.

JEFFERSON COUNTY GAINED 3,526 RESIDENTS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Jefferson county gained 3,526 new residents in the last five years, bringing its total population to 85,776, according to census figures announced here today.

The city of Watertown has a population of 32,834 as compared with 31,285 in 1920.

ITALY'S FIRST PAYMENT OF FIVE MILLION RAISED.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Nov. 30.—Italy's first payment of $5,000,000 on its debt to the United States has now been practically raised by public subscription, according to the newspapers today.

Subscriptions have been flooding in from persons of all walks of life.

Westchester County Gained.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 30.—Westchester county gained 81,262 new residents since 1920 giving it a total population of 525,795, according to census figures announced here today. This was the greatest gain the county has ever experienced in any five year period.

Dance at Port Ewen.

A dance will be given at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, Tuesday evening by the Merry Makers of this city. Music will be supplied by Zucca's orchestra.

Merritt Every Files Six Cent Bus Petition

Expected Matter Will Come Up Tuesday Evening at Common Council Meeting—Offers to Give City Same Service as Winne at Lesser Rate of Fare.

Merritt Every, Port Ewen garage proprietor, has filed with City Clerk A. A. Styles his petition to the Common council for permission to operate a six cent bus line over the abandoned Colonial route of the trolley road. It is expected the matter will come up at the regular monthly meeting of the common council on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Every announced some time ago that he intended filing his petition but was unable to do so until the necessary papers had been drawn up by his attorney. This has been done.

The common council has already granted the petition of Howard C. Winne to operate a bus line for a seven cent fare with a ticket fare of five cents. Mr. Every offers the same kind of bus service for six cent fare with a ticket fare of five cents.

Xmas Checks of First National

The First National Bank of Rondout, at Broadway and Strand tonight mails out approximately $50,000 in Christmas Checks to the members of its popular Christmas Club. These checks should be delivered throughout the city Tuesday, December 1.

The great success of the Christmas Club at this bank indicates how popular the Christmas Club idea is. Perhaps the most striking feature of the Christmas Club is its wide appeal to every class of people. While some members use this method to put aside a certain amount regularly each week for the purpose of holiday spending, a great many accumulate funds for the purchase of coal, clothing, taxes and interest. In fact, the Christmas Club has been a teacher to some people of the importance of regular, weekly, uninterrupted thrift.

The First National Bank of Rondout's Christmas Club for 1926 is already forming. As announced elsewhere in an advertiseemnt in The Freeman, the club has 15 different classes to choose from, from 1 cent to $10 a week, a class to suit every purse. The bank will be glad to welcome its old friends back to membership in the new Christmas Club and extends to everyone a cordial invitation to join. The club is now open for membership.

Four Hurt When Struck by Autos

Three Pedestrians and a Motorcyclist Injured Over Week End When Struck by Automobiles on City Streets.

Four accidents were reported to the police department over the week end in which three pedestrians and one motorcyclist were injured when struck by automobiles.

Sunday afternoon Mildred Dunning, eight years old, of New York city, was struck by the car of John Walker of the Plank Road on Washington avenue near the viaduct. She was rushed to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found she was cut about the knees and eyes. After having her wounds dressed she was removed to the home of her uncle, Dennis Carroll, on Washington avenue.

Sunday morning James Turck of No. 66 Hurley avenue struck Mrs. Nellie Belon of No. 18 Belvedere street at Clinton and Albany avenues. She was removed to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found she was injured about the head and hands. She is still at the hospital but her condition is not considered serious.

On Saturday the Ford truck owned by George W. Johnson and driven by Charles H. Fitzpatrick of 47 Van Buren street struck George Blew who was riding a motorcycle at Albany avenue and Manor avenue. Blew was removed to the Kingston City Hospital for an injury to his foot.

Achel Fadoul, nine years old, was struck by the car of Albert Allamari of 7 Wurts street, on East Strand at Spencer street on Saturday and removed to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found he had sustained fractured ribs and other injuries. His condition today was very favorable.

$500,000 FIRE WIPED OUT EIGHT NEWARK BUILDINGS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 30.—Thirty-three families were driven from their homes and damage estimated at $500,000 was done early today by a fire which wiped out eight buildings in the heart of the business section of Newark.

Three persons who were trapped in burning buildings were brought to safety by firemen, who reached them by means of ladders.

Thrones watched the huge blaze, which was visible for miles around.

Manager Harder Gets Promotion In Telephone Co.

New York Telephone Advances Able Manager to Greater Responsibilities—Will Continue His Residence Here—Potter Succeeds Him as Local Commercial Manager.

Alfred L. Harder, for the past five years local commercial manager for the New York Telephone Company in Kingston, has been appointed division commercial agent, reporting directly to W. R. Adams, division commercial manager, at Albany. This is a distinct advance for Mr. Harder in authority, extent of territory and financial reward and makes him one of the less than a half a dozen men who constitute the staff of division commercial manager.

In his new position Mr. Harder will oversee relations with connecting companies and exercise supervision wherever needed within the bounds of the division, which extend from Beacon to the Canadian line and as far west as Cortland, Binghamton, Syracuse and Watertown. As probably three-fourths of his time will be spent away from home, Mr. Harder will not move to Albany, but will continue his residence in Kingston.

Mr. Harder became connected with the New York Telephone Company 16 years ago as collector at Saugerties, coming to Kingston later as chief clerk, a position he held until promoted to succeed the late Willis Hills as local commercial manager at Kingston. For the past six months he has spent most of his time in special work which took him to various parts of the division and was of the nature that will be required of him in his new position.

While Mr. Harder was away from Kingston the work of local commercial manager here were performed by F. C. R. Potter, who has now been appointed to that office to succeed Mr. Harder. Mr. Potter has been connected with the New York Telephone Company for the past 12 years, beginning his work in the construction department under Mr. Greenleaf and continuing here for five years. For three years he was attached to the Albany office, returning to Kingston four years ago to go into the commercial department as a commercial agent. Mr. Potter resides in Port Ewen.

As local commercial manager in Kingston Mr. Potter will have charge of the commercial affairs of the company in Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware and part of Greene counties. There are 15 exchanges and 12,000 telephones in this area and if Mr. Potter administers the business as well as Mr. Harder has, there will be little justifiable complaint. Mr. Harder says Mr. Potter will, and those who know Mr. Harder have always found him a man of his word.

The changes take effect December 1.

PAYS DEATH PENALTY FOR KILLING POLICEMAN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 30.—Admitting his guilt and with a prayer for forgiveness on his tongue, Philip A. Hartman, 28, of Annville, Pa., died in the electric chair in the Western Pennsylvania prison today for the murder of a state policeman, during a bank robbery.

Hartman's crime career started a little more than a year ago, he told deputy wardens, when he robbed a filling station in Canton, Ohio, that his baby, who since has died, might have food and medical attention.

Later he attempted "bigger jobs" culminating in the holdup of the Abbottstown, Pa., National Bank. He obtained $1,200 and killed G. L. Haley, the policeman who pursued him.

Two Plead Guilty In County Court Are Sentenced

Tony Secreto Reaches Point of Facing Jury Before Changing Plea—Former Proprietor of Sherry Manor Also Guilty—Kallop Indictments Dismissed.

At a brief session of county court this morning several matters were disposed of. In the assault action where a jury was selected last Friday to try the matter the defendant, Tony Secreto, indicted for assault, second degree, decided to plead guilty to the crime of assault, third degree, after several long consultations with his attorneys. He is 50 years old and was charged with having attacked a young woman near First avenue, this city, as she was on her way to work. Secreto is married, was born in Italy and is not a citizen. He resides at 384 First avenue. District Attorney Traver consented to entering a plea of guilty to the lesser crime and Judge Fowler sentenced Secreto to 30 days in jail and also fined him $200 with an alternative of spending one day in jail for each $5 of the fine. W. H. and LeRoy Gill appeared for Secreto.

Frances Sherry Pleads Guilty.

Frances Sherry, who formerly conducted a place on the Saugerties road, known as Sherry Manor, appeared in court and through her attorney, Frank W. Brooks, changed a former plea of not guilty to the charge of maintaining a disorderly house to that of guilty as charged in the indictment. Mr. Brooks said that since the action had been brought the place had been closed under a padlock order and that Mrs. Sherry was out of business and did not intend to resume. He asked the court to consider these facts. A fine of $300 was imposed by Judge Fowler with an alternative of spending one day in jail for each $5 of the fine not paid. She paid.

Another indictment charging the possession of a slot machine on the premises at the time the raid was made by state troopers and the sheriff's officers was dismissed by the court.

Charges Dismissed Against Kallop.

Two indictments against Carl Kallop, both charging him with taking an automobile not his property and going on a joy ride, were dismissed. Mr. Traver stated that in both cases the complaining witness had asked that the indictments be dismissed. It was alleged that young Kallop and others took machines owned by Harry P. Dodge and Harry Lazarus and went for joy rides.

Since that time young Kallop has been steadily employed and has an excellent reputation and his employer considers him a trustworthy young man. His conduct has been good and the young man who was with him in the escapades and who apparently was responsible for the acts has been punished.

Mr. Traver said he believed it was the associate who was responsible to the acts and he therefore asked that the indictments be dismissed.

Judge Fowler stated that the indictments would be dismissed but he desired to keep a check up on Kallop and therefore would recommend that he be placed on probation for six months to report to Probation Office Service.

Court went into recess pending the arrival of a defendant who had been summoned to appear in court at 10 o'clock with his attorney but who had been delayed.

Auto Victim Dies At Ellenville

Struck by Auto Near Phillipsport, Lewis Budd Succumbs to Injuries at Veterans' Memorial Hospital—Jacob Isaacowitz of Ellenville Under Arrest.

Lewis Budd was brought to the Ellenville Memorial Hospital Sunday night shortly before midnight with a fractured skull. He died shortly after being admitted to the hospital. Dr. J. C. Coles attended the injured man and it was learned that he had been injured by an automobile while he was walking along the road near Phillipsport, Sullivan county.

The matter was reported to Assistant District Attorney Cleon H. Murray, who promptly made an investigation and later with the assistance of State Trooper Ross, who assisted in the investigation, Jacob Isaacowitz of Ellenville was placed under arrest charged with having driven the car which struck Mr. Budd.

When word of the accident was received, Mr. Murray notified the authorities of the accident and instructed them to keep a lookout for the car. Later it was learned that the car had become stuck along the road near Phillipsport where the accident had happened and it was located along the road some six miles from Ellenville, between Spring Glen and Phillipsport.

Isaacowitz was turned over to the Sullivan county authorities as the accident happened in that county. It is the contention of Isaacowitz that Budd was the victim of another headlight accident. It is supposed that Budd blinded by headlights as he walked along the road was struck by the car as two machines were passing, the drivers of the machines not seeing him at the time.

All Records for Holiday Buying Will Be Broken

Is Prediction of Government Business and Finance Authorities—Remarkable Improvement In Bank Structure—Greater Prosperity In 1926.

(Copyright, 1925, by International News Service.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 30.—With more than twenty billions of dollars in the bank, the American people will break all records for holiday buying this year, it was predicted today by government business and finance authorities.

A veritable orgy of Christmas shopping is just beginning, according to preliminary reports gathered by trade experts, and December business promises to furnish a fitting climax to what is generally characterized as the most uniformly successful business year in American history.

Contributing to the glowing outlook is the fact that most authorities, among them Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, believe that 1926 will see even greater prosperity, due to tax revision and natural causes.

"The year has been most successful," said Secretary Mellon, "and 1926 offers even greater progress."

Better Buy Early.

With the injunction that "the people better buy early," Secretary of Commerce Hoover predicted "one of the greatest holiday business seasons in American history."

"Christmas," Hoover said, "will find America at a record level of prosperity, with the business fabric at its nearest approach to permanent stability.

"Although commercial and industrial figures of the inflation years of 1919 and 1920 were larger, greater buying power of the dollar, high real wages, absence of unemployment and industrial expansion governed by the thermometer of consumption are indicators of constructive progress."

Improvement In Living Standards.

Hoover is hopeful that problems of elimination of waste in production and distribution will be solved. And that 1926 will bring to the American people even greater improvement since December 1, 1924 according to Comptroller of the Currency Joseph W. McIntosh, within whose jurisdiction comes the regulation of the country's national banks.

Banks in Better Position.

Pointing out that the last bank call, disclosed resources of 8,055 banks to have been $24,569,527,000, exceeding by $1,246,466,000 those of a year ago, and deposits of nearly $20,000,000,000, McIntosh said: "I anticipate a continued gain of resources during the coming year.

"The better position of banks may be attributed directly to important gains in business during 1925."

Another important point in good business was furnished by George R. James, member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Best In Ten Years.

"Looking at the United States as a whole I believe that the situation presents a more favorable picture than for ten years," James declared.

"Christmas buying should be the best since the war. I have observed that in New York, Chicago, Memphis, Richmond, Virginia, Washington and other cities the trade volume is heavy.

"America undoubtedly has stepped to higher levels of progress during the year. Merchants and the people generally are not inclined to speculate on the things which have a bearing on the public needs."

Saving Deposits Increased.

Latest figures on saving deposits show heavy gains. On November 1, 893 of the country's largest banks reported savings deposits of $7,979,152,000, a gain of $9,000,000 in October and $475,000,000 for the year. These figures are regarded by officials as among the best indicators of a more prosperous nation.

Savings deposits increased in every federal reserve district during the year. New York had the greatest boost from $2,901,725,000 to $2,198,478,000. The Boston and San Francisco districts went ahead over $100,000,000, while in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Dallas jumps were material. St. Louis showed a slight increase.

Predicts Cold Winter for 1925-6

New York Central Weather Sharp Finds That Accumulation of Heat During Eight Months Should Be Followed by Cold Winter According to Records.

In the thirteenth annual weather forecast, C. B. Bronson, assistant inspecting engineer of the New York Central Lines, says "the ensuing winter of 1925-6 will be considerably colder on the average than the winter of 1924-5."

The basis of this annual forecast is a composite record of the months of December, January and February for the years 1872 to 1925, for New York and Chicago. The algebraic sum of the excesses and deficiencies of temperature for the three months is plotted for each year. This chart shows that cold and mild winters do not follow in regular sequence. Wider variations are apparent for Chicago than for New York because the latter is protected by the Appalachian barrier and tempered by the Gulf Stream, while the former is unprotected from the sweep of northwestern and southwestern storms as they pass across the continent.

How Sun's Heat Varies.

Some scientists have asserted that the accumulation of exact data on variations in solar radiation would be of immense value in making long range weather forecasts. The basis of the theory is that the emission of heat from the sun varies from time to time due to sun spots and other causes, and in consequence barometric and temperature changes are effected on earth. The inference is that the rise and fall in proportion of heat radiation from the sun causes a corresponding rise and fall of barometric conditions and temperature in the earth's atmosphere.

What Scientists Have Done.

Scientists and meteorologists have spent a large part of the last twenty years in developing delicate instruments, accumulating basic data and in compiling and analyzing the facts secured.

"The value of solar radiation data," continues Mr. Bronson, "has seemed important enough to anticipate that with the accumulation of further facts more concordant comparisons may be found with the earth's temperature changes.

All Predictions Uncertain.

"Direct interest at present is concerned with the character and kind of weather to be expected during the coming winter, especially because of the vital and far-reaching effect it may have on railroad operations. A concrete prediction is practically nullified by the uncertainty of the problem as shown by the extensive accumulation of records which indicate the variables encountered.

The Temperature Record.

"Attention is called, however, to the temperature record which shows that an accumulation of 400 degrees or more was piled up at most stations the first eight months of the year. Commencing with the early part of October a recession has occurred which has gained such force that a large part of the accumulated excess has been wiped out and it is likely that this condition will continue, with occasional interruptions, so that the ensuing winter will be considerably colder, on the average, than the past winter. Continued railroad operations under such conditions would be more securely obtained if advance preparations could be made to meet this possible contingency."

ESTABLISH MINIMUM PASTORS' SALARIES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 30.—No Lutheran pastor in this vicinity will receive in the future less than $1,500 a year with parsonage, according to action of the local conference of the Pennsylvania Ministerium of the United Lutheran Church in America in session here. A special "Congregational Survey" in printed form was distributed to the conference delegates. The survey showed that of 46 parishes in the Wilkes-Barre Conference only six have no parsonage. Eleven increased their pastors' salaries this year. The average salary in 14 city congregations is $2,100. In 21 town congregations it is $1,775. In eight rural parishes it is $1,487.

The action of the conference was that all congregations not paying $1,500 be asked to take immediate steps to reach this minimum.

METTACHONTS.

Mettachonts, Nov. 30.—The entertainment and oyster supper which was to be held on December 4, will be postponed until on Friday evening, December 11. Proceeds for the hall. Everybody welcome.

The donation held in the basement of the Reformed Church on Thanksgiving night was largely attended.

Never Spend for foods without flavor

In oats, get "Mother's Oats flavor," which is true Scotch flavor

THE same money spent by one woman will buy charming, attractive meals. By another, "just meals."

Flavor is the big point in all foods. And above all, in breakfast oats. The difference is great and marked.

Oats should have a certain toasty, Scotch flavor; in this country known as "Mother's Oats flavor."

No other brand but Mother's Oats has it. Mother's Oats exclusive milling of richest, plumpest grains alone attains it. Scores have tried. None have imitated it.

So it's important to say Mother's Oats in buying oats. For in Mother's Oats, you get the true Scotch flavor that oats, originally a Scotch dish, should have.

Quick Mother's Oats cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than toast.

Due to Mother's Oats milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

ACCORD.

Accord, Nov. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Palmer, Sr., spent Thanksgiving Day with their son at Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Nelson moved into their new home at Patakunk on Thursday.

Mrs. Agnes Silkworth returned to her home on Saturday after spending Thanksgiving with relatives at New Paltz.

The N. Y., O. & W. R. R. Co. has been grading the road near the station with cinders, which will be a big improvement over the previous rough and muddy condition.

Herbert J. Sahler and family of Tuxedo Park spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sahler.

John Schoonmaker took in the Cornell-Pennsylvania football game held in Philadelphia last Thursday.

The Rev. N. L. Heros, who fell and broke his shoulder a few weeks ago, is reported making satisfactory recovery and is expected home again in a short time.

Everyone in Accord and vicinity is invited to the Christmas sale on December 4, which will be held at the sign of the "White Elephant," whose headquarters are at the Methodist Church hall. The sale will be held all the afternoon and evening until everything is sold and will include articles of every description, including gifts for every member of the household from babies up to grandparents. From 5 o'clock until 8 a delicious clam chowder supper will be served. So all are urged to come out with a full pocketbook and help the Home Bureau, which is helping them to have happier homes by serving better balanced meals and also saving money by their millinery and dressmaking courses and giving many pleasant evenings with the development of their hitherto unknown dramatic talent. They will look for every Home Bureau member and their friends, with their husbands and families on the afternoon and evening of Friday, December 4.

CIVIC SERVICE CONTEST FOR DE MOLAY CHAPTERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 30.—A Civic Service Contest for chapters of the Order of De Molay, to run until September 1, 1926, has been announced here by the Grand Council. A prize of $200 will be given the winning chapter and $100 for second place. Other chapters winning honors will receive citations.

Civic activities which will be considered in making the awards will be those contributing to the well-being of men, women and children, according to Hamil S. Land, Grand Scribe of the Order. Welfare work in connection with other organizations will have an important bearing in deciding the winner. The contest will round out the De Molay good citizenship program which was started more than a year ago.

Variety and Chic in New Neckline

Mode Includes Scarf, Military Collar and Bows at Front, Back, Sides.

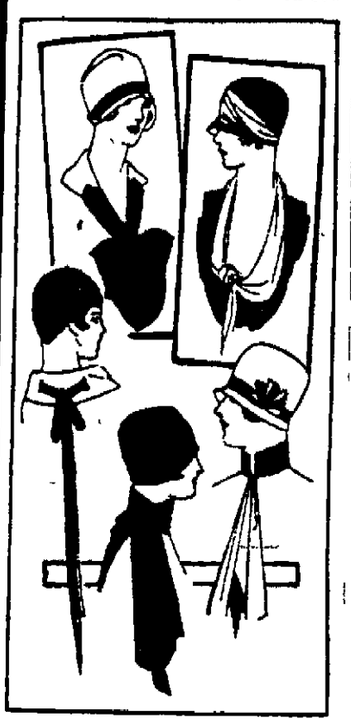

The lines about the neck play an important role in the frock and coats, notes a fashion writer in the Chicago Daily News.

The evening gown is more varied in its selection of lines about the neck. The back is generally cut lower than the front, but there is no definite stopping place at either point. And, while the square-cut neck is seen in many new models, the old round or V-shaped lines are still used with becomingness and chic.

Frequently a scarf accomplishes much that is smart in the lines of the neck in the afternoon frocks. It is tied in a graceful knot and hangs down the back in two becoming folds, or in careless fashion is tied in front in a soft knot.

The military collar, which is upstanding in its newness, is another favorite of the new mode. It is used with much success in the frocks of heavy materials. In silks, too, it is to be found, with long ribbons softening its stiffness and hanging in colorful strands down the front to the waistline.

Bows at front, bows at back, and bows at the side are all notes of chic in the new mode. The scarf bow hangs a bit longer than the ribbon bow and is more frequently used in the chiffon or crepe frocks as a contrast in color.

The little low, flat collars which spell youth so successfully are used in a new way. They begin higher up at the neck and ruffle into a decided flare and are no longer simple in their appeal but have taken on a note of sophistication.

American Broadtail or Caracul for New Coat

Many women are selecting a coat of American broadtail or one of the lovely moire caraculs. These furs are immensely popular this year, and they are conservative enough for business wear, at the same time being quite smart enough for dress. Most women of today in the business world have innumerable occasions when they must appear as smartly attired as their butterfly sisters. And a coat of this type enables them to step from the office to a hotel luncheon or a theater party at night with the consciousness of being entirely in step with the mode.

As everywhere else in the world of furs, fox is used a great deal to trim both American broadtail and caracul. Colors shown are black for the older woman, with all the brown and cocoa shades a general favorite and a strong leaning toward gray. A clear, silvery gray called platinum is handsome and is seen a great deal.

Hudson seal, of which femininity never seems to tire, is to be had in a number of smart new models. One very swagger affair for the debutante is a wrappy sort of thing with one side coming up slightly above the other at the front. And it is bordered all round by a narrow edging of very fine natural mink. In a season where we see very wide furs on every hand, this model achieves extreme distinction by its very simplicity.

Vogue of Lace

It seems safe to say that lace is to be more fashionable than ever during the season, especially for evening wear. Afternoon dresses of crepe empire lace for an effective trimming. Black chantilly lace is used over gold cloth for striking effects. Argentine red and gold lace is another effective combination in a dance frock. A white satin evening cape has a full-length flounce of black lace fastened just below the shoulder. A white ermine collar adds charm to this handsome garment.

Hats for Fall

For autumn wear there are fascinating fall hats of sky blue. Others of the same shade are made of velours which promise to be a winter favorite.

His Order

"Yes, laddie, I was a commercial traveler once, but not a success, old boy—not a success in the part. I was on the road four weeks, and the only order I ever got was the one from my firm telling me to come home!"—London Opinion.

Slim Modes, Wide Flare Effect Around Skirt

Slim modes with wide flare effect around the skirt is a Paris fashion for winter wear. Long coat frocks continue to be very fashionable and are found, very practical by the busy women. Some of them have very wide sleeves.

Embroidery Is Used in Many Interesting Ways

The new jersey frocks are decorated with a large animal motif, embroidered either in silk or wool, the figure being that of a tiger, elephant, fox or dog. These decorations are placed on the front of blouse or on the sleeve. The material is of fine quality and the colors usually seen are tan, blue, green or rust.

Porto Rican nightgowns are of delicately tinted sheer fabrics. These gowns have dainty embroidered motifs worked in contrasting color.

Many magnificent Chinese embroideries are now displayed in many shops. Wonderful and beautiful colors are worked on backgrounds of silk.

Many frocks and coats show a tendency of the Oriental in the elaborate embroidery used on them.

Other intriguing things for trimming are the hand-painted flowers of silk and mousseline to be found among the latest decorative motifs. They are fashioned to reproduce every known blossom and are brought out in steadily increasing variety. New, vividly colored flowers in the peasant wool embroideries are still popular, especially for sports frocks and hats. They are gay and showy and much liked for various costumes in the country.

A tailored chemise of heavy crepe de chine is trimmed with hemstitching and a picoted ruffle around the bottom.

Dainty dance bloomers made of crepe de chine, with tiny ruffles of georgette, are just the right thing to wear with a Peter Pan dance frock.

Belted tunic frocks gayly embroidered with metal threads have flaring fine-bordered skirts, thus showing the Russian influence.

A straight-line black chiffon velvet is hand-blocked in multicolored roses on the bodice and as a border. There is a band of mink fur at the hemline.

Decorative Headdress for Evening Occasions

Women of the same height and of similar build, wearing precisely the same costume, will look totally different, because one wears her clothes well and the other does not.

The trim appearance of the shingled head is sufficient in itself for the day time, but at the dance, in the theater, or restaurant, it seems to demand some kind of decoration. And so the decorative headdress for evening wear is finding favor. At a recent dance several pretty bandeaux were noted. One was of metal tissue; another, for black hair, was red, with a rose to match tucked behind the left ear. A tall woman, with brown hair wore two strips of golden-yellow silk ribbon, joined together after the fashion of the ancient Greeks, wide apart on top of the head and narrowing into one width over the ears. Where the ribbons met at the ears, flat, plaque-like decorations of yellow and brown artificial berries were suspended.

Novelty Bags Designed for Various Occasions

New bags designed to be carried with sports suits are shown among the latest novelties. Those in leather are of moderate size in the envelope shape with clasp and underling strap. Other soft purse bags are made of cloth, ornamented in many picturesque ways, with a bit of wool embroidery, crochet or appliqué. Picturesque, practical bags for motoring or general country use are made of cretonne, or chintz and of linen combined with woolen yarn in crocheted strips and bands.

Velvet Combined With Tweed

Smart little dresses for the schoolgirl are made of dark brown velvet combined with lighter tweed.

Chapman Hearing Is Adjourned

Until Wednesday to Give Bandit's Counsel Opportunity to Examine Federal Brief Submitted to Judge Thomas.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wethersfield, Conn., Nov. 30—Gerald Chapman's plea to be returned to Atlanta penitentiary to serve out his 25 year term for a mail robbery will not be delivered to a federal judge until next Wednesday at the earliest. Chapman was presented before Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States district court, in the state prison here today and was almost immediately returned to his prison cell. Judge Thomas adjourned the hearing until Wednesday morning to give Chapman's counsel a chance to examine a federal brief that was submitted to the judge.

The brief, filed by George Cohen, acting United States district attorney for Connecticut, related the fact that the federal government has no further claim on Chapman and "respectfully suggests" that Chapman's plea for a writ of habeas corpus be dismissed and his petition for return to Atlanta be denied.

The stage was set today for a full hearing. Chapman was in his seat in the board of pardon's room. His full battery of counsels arranged about a table. Warden Scott of the State prison, attended as defendant in the action of Chapman vs. Scott. State and county officials were on hand as well as federal authorities.

Judge Thomas had court opened in form. He was presiding over a special session, one that he had authority to call. He swore in stenographers and attended to each detail needed in such court.

District Attorney Cohen walked forward at the first call to action and presented a lengthy brief stating the government's side of the case. Presentation of the document precluded all further action at the time. Chapman's counsel needed a chance to find out what it was all about. Judge Thomas granted a brief recess and then realizing that would not suffice, adjourned for 48 hours.

A Card Party.

A card party will be held at the Holy Cross parish house on Tuesday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Arthur Dolson is chairman of the committee. Bridge and pinochle will be played and refreshments will be served.

FRUITS OF SOVIET RULE.

The violent exchange of the Czar for the Soviet was to make everybody prosperous and happy through the simple expedient of the abolition of the capitalistic system, but the accounts tend to show that the practical result has been to put Russia under the terror of a more complete despotism and reduce the masses of its people to undreamed-of poverty and misery. It would appear that the French Revolution left nothing like such a trail of desolation, although similarity is suggested in certain particulars. A recent account of gangs of homeless, lawless, starving children in Moscow recalls descriptions of post-Revolution conditions in Paris, but these exhibited a less tragic and harsh picture than that which now comes from Moscow, where wild, wolfish, hapless children, "living and dying haphazard," run about in gangs "like flocks of black and gray scavenger crows."

Some of these neglected orphans of the war and of an upset social system, boys and girls from seven to twelve years, are said to share with occasional corpses the cellars of a great unfinished pre-war building called the "Catacombs," whence they sally forth to rob, steal or collect scraps of food from garbage tins. These little animals of Moscow's human jungle "have gnome-like filthy faces, childish eyes, shaggy hair, long men's coats, trousers pinned up or cut and ragged; they shuffle together, taking counsel, then swift as swallows make one after another a leap at the counter, grabbing anything, running like the wind." According to the account published in the New York Times from a Moscow correspondent, these children of the Soviet capital, left free to rob, fight, kill or starve, become highwaymen, murderers and dope fiends "almost before their bones have hardened."

They are supposed to be under the care of a "proletariat dictatorship," but the same authority madly aims to abolish religion as well as to destroy the home and make schools the nurseries of communism. Even granting that the picture is overdrawn, we may be sure that the reality is bleak and tragic enough, in view of such aims and the inevitable administrative blundering which such a radical experiment must involve. Mme. Roland cried out against the crimes committed by the French revolutionists "in the name of liberty." The observer at Moscow might as pointedly remark upon the blind cruelties and avoidable desolations brought about by radical execution of fool theories.

There is only one thing left the despoiled male which the encroaching, predatory female can not appropriate or copy, and Bishop Collins Denny of the Methodist Church urges men to make the most of it. Women, said the Bishop, speaking at Fayetteville, N. C., have usurped practically all of men's ancient and distinctive prerogatives: They vote, cut their hair short, smoke cigarettes, and even wear "pants." But they can not grow a beard—the last distinctive mark now left to man in a feminized world. Therefore it is the duty of the despoiled sex to make mute proclamation of "thus far and no farther" by wearing a mustache at the least. Bishop Denny speaks from a full heart and is proportionately impressive, but who can be sure that even this last citadel of man will not be carried by assault? Not a few of the advancing, all-approaching sex already exhibit the germ of a mustache, and there is no telling what a general and industrious employment of coaxing razors may accomplish.

Argentina already fines the nonvoter $10 for each offense and Australia intends to put compulsory voting into effect. Many doubtful as to beneficial results will agree with the Chicago Tribune when it says: "A government made and sustained by the compelled votes of citizens probably would turn out to be worse than one derived from floaters and repeaters. A republic can not sustain itself on the enforced interest and decision of its people. If they must have such dictation they would be better off with a dictator."

The Indian population of the United States has increased nearly 19,000 in the past 12 years and now numbers 349,595—a count that doubtless includes halfbreeds, quarterbreeds and many of still lighter hue who because of property or other interests still call themselves Indians. It would be interesting to know just how many pure-bloods of the aborigines still survive.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

AN IMPORTANT SAFEGUARD

One of Nature's most wonderful safeguards for that body of yours is the method by which the blood clots when a blood vessel is injured. Surgeons take advantage of this in operating, for after compressing a vessel, thus injuring it slightly, the blood clots and no bleeding can occur.

Our research men are now trying to locate just what organ or tussue in the body supplies the fibrinogen, as it is called, which forms the fibrin or the centre of the blood clot.

That the supply of lime in the food is important is admitted, but just which particular organ was responsible for the manufacture of fibrinogen has been a question for many years.

Now any injury to the body has the effect of making all the tissues work that much harder in an effort to protect the body. Therefore when the research men began to suspect that the liver was the place where fibrinogen was manufactured, they found that if the liver were slightly injured then more fibrinogen was manufactured for protection.

However when a severe injury occurred in the liver they found that the amount of fibrinogen in the blood was greatly decreased. This was good evidence then that the liver cells were responsible for the amount of fibrinogen in the blood.

Where a certain number of the liver cells were destroyed, they found that the fibrinogen was decreased just to the same extent as the amount of liver tissue destroyed.

These investigators admit that there may be other sources of fibrinogen in the body, but with the above facts at hand feel justified in stating that the liver is the main source.

Now why do I talk about it?

Because the manufacture of fibrinogen means your life in an injury or operation.

And also because it is our old friend the liver which again stands out as such an important organ in your body. Digestion, prevention of poisoning, stimulation of intestinal movement, and now manufacture of fibrinogen. Life then will depend upon the liver.

And gain the old advice, not too much rich food, a little outdoor exercise, and you keep this important organ in a state of real health.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

JOHN MANLEY'S NANCY.

Days of joy and gladness were few and far between in George Washington's camp at Cambridge 150 years ago, but one such day—perhaps the very first in seven months—was November 30, 1775. On that day came the great news that Captain John Manley, in his little cruiser the Lee, which had been commissioned by Washington and fitted out as a raider of British supply ships, had promptly begun his career in the service of the United Colonies by bringing into Cape Ann Roads as a prize of war the British ordnance brig Nancy with a vast store of military supplies.

The inventory of this rich haul reads as follows: One 13-inch mortar, two brass 24-pounders, two 18-pounders, ten field pieces, thirty 8-inch howitzers, ten 5½-inch howitzers, two 6-pounders, 2,700 stand of small arms with slings and cartouche boxes, thirty tons of empty cartridges, thirty-one tons of musket shot, 100,000 flints, 3,000 rounds of shot for 12-pounders, several barrels of powder, fifty "carcasses" or incendiary projectiles, sixty reams of cartridge paper, a number of watch coats, 20,000 1-pound shot, wagons, harness, accoutrements for light horse, and several smaller items of military treasure.

No wonder Lord Sandwich, head of the British Admiralty, when he heard of the fate of the Nancy, called it a "fatal event." No wonder, also that the Yankee army proclaimed holiday, and celebrated the arrival of the riches in camp as thus narrated by Colonel Stephen Moylan of the General's headquarters's staff:

"Such universal joy ran through the whole camp as if each grasped victory in his hand; to crown the glorious scene, there intervened one truly ludicrous, which was Old Put (General Israel Putnam) mounted on the large mortar, which was fixed in its bed for the occasion, with a bottl of rum in his hand, standing parson to christen, while Godfather Mifflin gave it the name of Congress. The huzzas on the occasion, I dare say, were heard through all the territories of our most gracious sovereign in this province."

Mingled with the joy over the capture itself in this celebration was relief over the safe arrival of the supplies in camp. When Washington had first received news of the capture his great concern had been lest the British might sally forth from Boston to recover the Nancy and her cargo. He had ordered four companies from camp down to the shore to stand guard while teams were impressed throughout the countryside and the minute men of Cape Ann were called out under Colonel Glover to insure the safe removal of the treasure to the Cambridge camp. There had been no mishap, no interference from the British, and by nightfall everything was safely stored away and the General's ordnance department was richer than it had ever been before, and at last ready for certain little exploits which will be related later.

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE FAN-TAILED ORBIT

A native of Japan, the orbit was imported into this country a few years ago to keep down the pink zebra pest, of which it makes mincemeat, but the increase of synthetic gin changed the zebras into great purple-spotted elephants, and the orbit is without a job. Most of them have now migrated to the Gulf of Mexico, where they live on loan sharks and watermelon pickles, and spend their time fanning the Gulf Stream to keep down its temperature.

The characteristic fan is made of folded paper and stuck on with a ball of chewing. The body is a long filbert, the wings half peanut shells, and the head a peanut. Legs and neck are cloves, and the feet are split peanuts. The orbit is a beautiful bird if properly dipped in orange canoe paint.

ODD PENALTIES FOR LAPSE FROM GRACE

Ridicule Once Held Effective Punishment.

The "drunkard's cloak" as a punishment was the system once adopted by the magistrates of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne in order to cure drunken persons, and as the "cloak" consisted of a barrel with holes for the head and hands, the delinquent, who was forced to parade the streets wearing it, would attract considerable attention to his lapse.

Similarly the stocks, once used so extensively for the punishment of petty offenders, were so arranged that the culprits generally received more ridicule than sympathy, and probably our forefathers considered that publicity was likely to discourage wrongdoing. In 1376 a petition was presented Edward III requesting that stocks should be established in every village, and, later on, each parish was so provided. These relics of a bygone punishment are still seen by the wayside.

The whipping post was sometimes an accompaniment of the stocks; occasionally the whipping was done "at the cart's tail." Titus Oates, for instance, was ordered to be whipped from Aldgate to Newgate, and, two days later, from Newgate to Tyburn.

Our ancestors were severe on the woman scold, and the punishment meted out to her was drastic. One known as the brank was a sugar-loaf-shaped fixture for the head, constructed of iron hooping, with a cross at the top. A flat piece of iron projected inwards, which was placed on the woman's tongue. She was then led about the streets wearing this unique head dress.

The ducking stool was built and used in this wise. A post was erected in a pond, and a beam, working on a swivel, was affixed thereto. A chair was then fastened to the beam, and the refractory woman was placed in the chair. She was then swung over the pond and immersed in the water, the operation being repeated "as often as the virulence of the distemper required." This punishment is also said to have been inflicted upon brewers and bakers who violated the laws.

The pillory was another instrument of punishment where the offender was exposed to public view. It generally consisted of a wooden frame or screen, raised from the ground, and with holes for the head and arms of the person condemned to stand therein.

But of all these wayside spectacles surely the gibbet would be the most revolting. It might be regarded as a "comforting sight to the relations and friends of the deceased" to see that justice had been done and the murderer's body suspended by the roadside, but it would be a ghastly sight for other people.

The Health Building Effects of Burke's Extract of COD LIVER OIL

NOW IN TABLET FORM

Combined With IRON To Make RICH RED BLOOD

In all medicine there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil. Nothing has ever been discovered that is "just as good." For nearly two centuries—ever since 1766—Cod Liver Oil has been healing the sick. It has proved itself to be the one dependable medicine for every race and every nation on the face of the earth. Hospitals and physicians the world over recommend and use it. No form of medicine has stood the test of time like Cod Liver Oil—it is the same today as it was 156 years ago, when its benefits first became generally known.

And now a remarkable new method has been perfected by which the famous health-building elements of Cod Liver Oil are extracted by a wonderful scientific process and presented in a small sugar coated tablet. Just think what this means! Thousands of pale, sickly, run-down people who could never take Cod Liver Oil because of its horrible, nauseous taste may now be built up and strengthened in a way they never dreamed was possible.

Remember this name which has been given these new Cod Liver Oil tablets so that you may be sure to get the genuine. When you go to your druggist ask for Burke's Extract of COD LIVER OIL and IRON tablets. Be sure to include the word "IRON"—for that is an important ingredient in this new flesh-building and tonic prescription. IRON together with other recognized health-building ingredients has been combined in Burke's Extract of COD LIVER OIL and IRON Tablets so that pale, sickly people lacking in proper blood strength may be sure of plenty of rich, red blood; which brings the snap and vigor that are so much a part of rugged, happy health.

When you feel the need of a tonic—something to build you up after a spell of sickness—or if you find that you don't weigh as much as you should, Burke's Extract of COD LIVER OIL and IRON Tablets will start you gaining in just a few days. For growing children who lack appetite or may be "spindling" and pale looking, put them on a daily treatment of these pleasant-to-take tablets and note the difference in the sturdy health gained within a week's time.

The same thing is true with circulation. During the last few years Advertisers have not been satisfied to suppose they were getting a certain circulation for their money; they don't want to be merely told, they want to know.

They want the circulation measured by a standardized and unquestionable measurement.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Mrs. Young at Annual Meeting

Newly Elected Chairman of Federation of Home Bureaus to Speak at Association Meeting Wednesday.

Among other good things in store for Ulster county people at the annual meeting of the Farm and Home Bureau Association Wednesday is an address to be given by Mrs. Edward Young of Milton, newly elected chairman of the State Federation of Home Bureaus. Mrs. Young will address the association on the Home Bureau Federation, its aims and what it should mean to members.

The annual meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Kingston High School, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The meeting will open with response to roll call by communities. Three directors each of the Farm Bureau and of the Home Bureau are to be elected, and annual reports are to be given by the Farm and Home Bureau managers and by the secretary of the association.

But better far than reports and elections are the events that follow. Miss Mary Eva Duthie, specialist in dramatic arts, from Cornell University, will speak on the place of dramatics in the social life of the people. Miss Duthie needs no introduction to Ulster county people. The high class manner in which she has conducted the class in dramatics here speaks for itself.

Dr. C. E. Ladd, director of extension, Cornell University, will be there. Through his pleasing personality and capable leadership, Dr. Ladd has won the hearts of his people. It is an unusual opportunity to hear such a man. He will address the association on the work of extension in its broader phases. Everybody wants to hear Dr. Ladd.

Then, of course, many will turn out to greet Mrs. Young. That Ulster has a character so big as to be capable of filling the state chairmanship is a fact of which they are proud.

Tickets for the banquet are going fast. That there will be the biggest crowd and best program ever witnessed at any annual banquet is the prediction of all.

Exchange Brings Christmas Joy

An interesting philanthropy is the Woman's Exchange. It exacts no tribute. It only asks for patronage, which is so easy to give when one sees the tempting wares spread for the holiday buyer.

Here are delightful old fashioned hooked rugs, now so popular again that they command high prices in the larger cities, moderate enough in this shop at 306 Clinton avenue. Baby things—there is no stock like it in the city. Dainty, handmade articles such as can't be found elsewhere! Linens, handsomely embroidered, or very simply hemstitched, done by gentle-women in their homes. Among these are luncheon sets, bureau covers, towels, napkins and breakfast doilies. Bags? The Exchange specializes in bags. They are of infinite variety ranging from tiny beaded vanity bags to carry with a sparkling evening gown, up to capacious bags large enough to hold your knitting or your pet dog. There are styles you have never seen before.

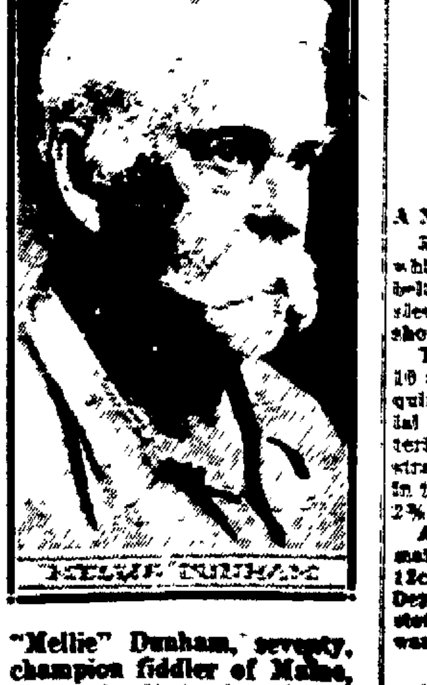

One of the most popular branches of the Exchange is the food counter. Many Kingston housekeepers are ordering all their Christmas goodies here. Plum pudding, homemade mince pie, fruit cake and tarts are made to order, fresh rolls are here every day, home baked bread and delicious cake.

But here is the sum and substance of this all. Every purchase made at the Woman's Exchange brings a double Christmas joy; first to you who buy it and will be pleased with your purchase, and second, to the woman who has made it and put it there to sell. It gives her a chance to earn her own living at home, and there are nearly one hundred women whose handiwork finds a market here. To sell this work will bring them their Christmas happiness.

That Separate Fur Neckpieces Are Returning to Favor and That Brown Is the Travelers' Color This Season

There is surely no longer anything local about fashion. It seems to be quite international. One half of the world is garbed, to all intents and purposes like the other.

Touring Italy is of course an ideal experience, and keeping one's eyes open for preferences in fashions adds greatly to it. At the present time Italy is infested with Germans and Americans and while there is a deal of difference in the way they wear their clothes, and some marked differences in the clothes themselves there are nevertheless certain similarities. In fact, between the wardrobes of the touring American and the women of Sorrento, Naples and Rome, the differences are very slight, if any. The Germans are decidedly given to tailored suits, which one time was the average American's idea of an appropriate and practical traveling costume. Now one finds the average traveler, barring the Germans, in an ensemble or at least in a dress and coat whether it matches or not.

Brown has been the color most encountered, coats are often mixtures of brown and are collared in cross fox, or nutria. Kasha costumes and the dresses in jumper effect are general, with appliques of gold on collar and pockets. German women are greatly given to white felt hats, but they seem confined to this class, the rest of the world being content to wear close fitting velours or less often felts. One clever little hat had a sort of cartridge belt of velour across the front of the crown this filled with little metal tubes. Inlays of velvet or contrasting material are much in evidence enroute. The reappearance of the separate neckpiece is one of the highlights. The silk scarf and the fur collared coats were rivals too formidable for the fur neckpiece to cope with for a season or so, but now, not only sizable foxes, but small animal scarfs are enjoying great favor, the preference being for brown fur, mink or marten leading.

Few Women in Poorhouses

There are more men in poorhouses than women, about two to one, but the women are harder to handle than the men, says the superintendent of one. "Give a man a stick to whittle and a seat in the sun and he'll be satisfied, but a woman never gets fully reconciled to charity. Our most troublesome inmates are the old bachelors and the most difficult to manage. They mean well, some of them are fine old fellows, but they have a different view of life than a man who has had a wife and children. They just simply haven't got the idea of teamwork." Correct. SOUTH AFRICAN OSTRICH

"I'm the South African Ostrich and I'm becoming quite a useful bird."

"You're useful, you say?" asked Mrs. South African Ostrich.

"My family has become useful," said Mr. South African Ostrich.

"Then don't try to get the praise yourself," said his mate. "I don't like to see such conceit in a South African Ostrich.

"Or, for that matter, in any creature, but especially in a South African Ostrich.

"I have some family pride and my family pride makes me feel proud but not conceited—the kind of pride one feels happy about but doesn't brag about, you know."

"Well," said Mr. South African Ostrich, "I didn't mean to be conceited, but I meant to tell you something interesting."

"Tell it to me," said Mrs. South African Ostrich, "and I will take it all back that I said you were conceited.

"To be sure I can't exactly take it back, for I believe no one can take back completely what has been said. Once the words go forth from the mouth they don't return.

"Words are mean that way and so one should be careful how one uses them.

"One should be quite careful about words one might want to take back. It is really impossible to take them back. So if one thinks about using words that possibly one might want to take back—be careful, be careful."

"I Know What You Mean."

Mr. Ostrich grinned a very silly grin and said:

"That's so. You've been learning a bit, in fact you have been saying some quite wise things for an ostrich."

Mrs. Ostrich did not mind this at all, and waited for Mr. Ostrich to continue his story, which after a moment or so he did.

"Back in the country from where we came," he said, "and where our family live, they are having farms with ostriches upon them.

"Yes, people who come to the zoo talk of their farms with their cows and their chickens and their hens and their turkeys.

"But where we live, or rather where we did live, they have ostrich farms, and all the time they are becoming more plentiful.

"That is to say, there are more of them all the time.

"And, as the time goes on, for the time will go on, my dear, and not even the beauty or usefulness of an ostrich can stop it, as the time goes on, we are being thought more of, too.

"They have farms where members of our family live in the western part of the United States, in a state they call California. Not only in our South African home but in California there are ostrich farms.

"It's a beautiful state, and its people are proud of it as they have every reason of being.

"A state, you may know, and again you may not, is a part of this country, my dear Mrs. Ostrich.

"Well, they sell our feathers and make a great deal of money.

"So you see how useful we are. Not that we two ostriches are useful but our families are—you know what I mean."

"I know what you mean," said Mrs. Ostrich, "but I would say that we were not only useful but beautiful for they would not have farms for us if it were not for our beauty. This is simply right family pride.

"Useful animals are cows who give milk, but we're beautiful creatures and we give of our beauty, too—nor do we have to be killed as poor little birds do.

"Ostrich feathers are all right to wear.

"The state of California knows this among other things, evidently. Perhaps it is because California is beautiful, too."

Nothing Unusual

Frankie, aged five, and his little sister Mary were watching their father and a gentleman friend playing cards one evening. Their mother, mindful of the time for bed, called from an adjoining room: "Kiddies, it is 8 o'clock."

"Aw, that's nothin'," answered Frankie; "that happens twice a day."

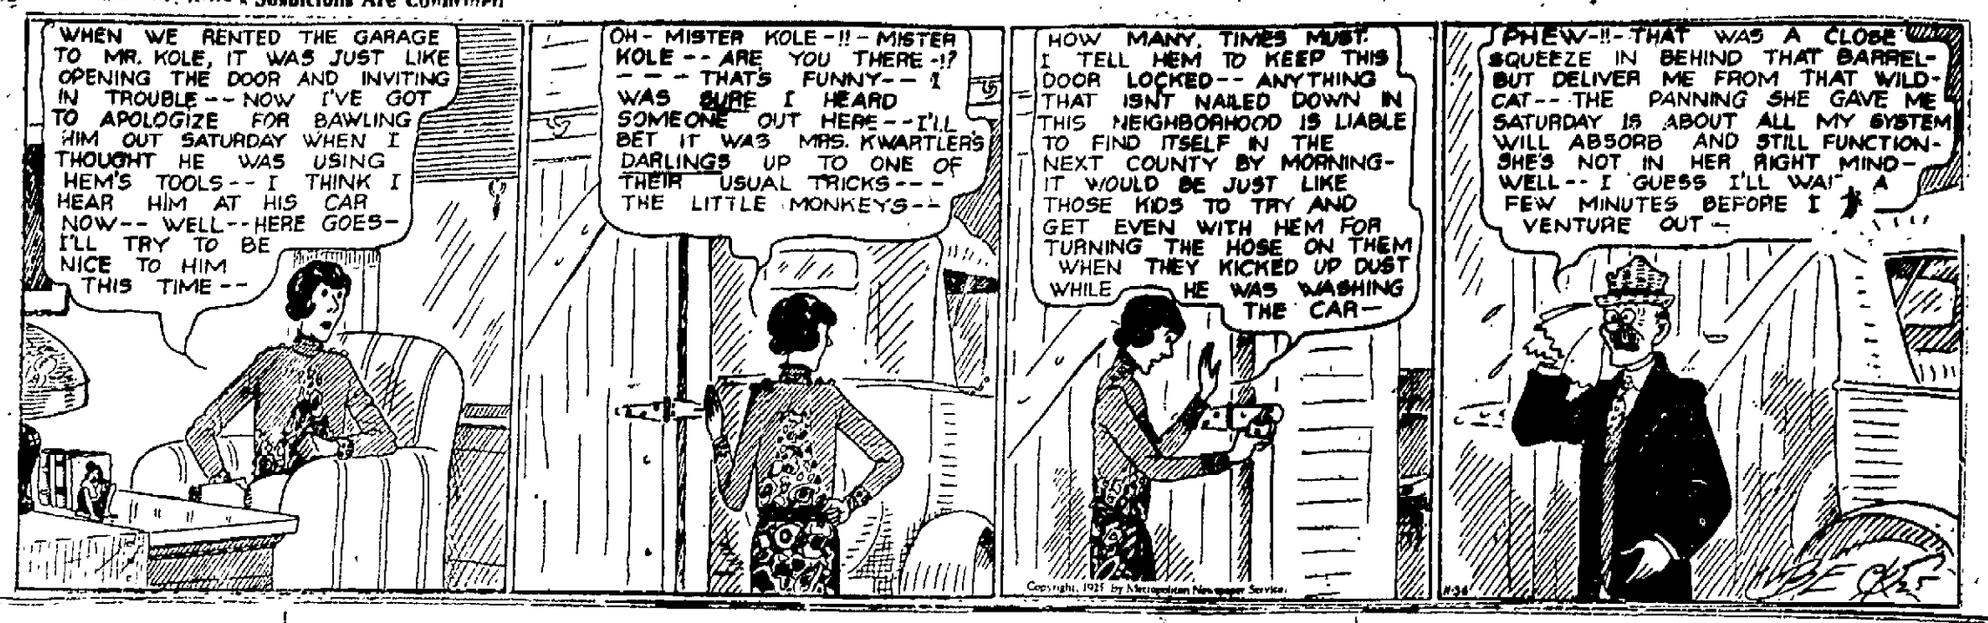

Blaspheme Rocks

Jimmy, aged five, was out walking with his mother when they saw a can labeled "dynamite."

"Don't go near that, mamma, or you might get killed," said he, with the air of one possessing superior knowledge. "That's what the miners use to blaspheme rocks with."

Red springs the rye,
As autumn days decline,
And from the brilliant sky
Less florid splendors shine.
Its airy, lustrous line
The gossamer displays,
And faintly breathes the pine.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"Bats in one's belfry" is no joke if they have ever taken possession of the upper regions of a house. Fill all openings where it is possible for them to get in and burn sulphur, a lot of it, in the attic until they are smoked out.

For the bedridden who get so tired lying in one position and can help themselves: Tie stout new cotton cloth cut into wide strips to the head board or bed frame, have large knots in each end of the strip to grasp. By holding to these supports one may raise or change position easily. The knots may be slipped under the pillow when not in use.

A bed light fastened to the headboard of the bed is a great comfort for a poor sleeper. With a slight movement the light may be turned on or off and one may read in bed without the trouble of moving.

For tired feet, a mixture of baking soda and talcum sprinkled into the shoes will give great relief. Change footwear; a change of shoes will rest the feet and a bath of salt water is very refreshing. Feet need care as much or more than other parts of the body, yet they are greatly neglected.

Corns and calluses may be relieved by keeping them covered with a piece of surgeon's tape; renew as often as the bathing removes them. If they cling to the hose, cover with a small bit of absorbent cotton.

When applying adhesive plaster to a wound which has to be dressed often, use short strips with tapes fastened to the strips; these can be untied, the dressing changed and returned without disturbing the adhesive at all. It is not only painful, but dangerous to remove adhesive on a tender skin.

When a good tablecloth has been stained and is otherwise in good condition, stretch the cloth with the spot over a pair of embroidery hoops and remove the stain; then press, and the cloth is fresh again.

Orange cut into bits and left where a fever patient may help himself, is a great comfort.

Millions Invested in Canadian Fox Farms

Ottawa, Ont.—More than $10,000,000 was invested in fox farms in Canada at the end of 1924, according to the dominion bureau of statistics. There were 1,466 fox-raising establishments in Canada at the end of 1924, an increase of 323 farms.

About 75 per cent of the fox farms are located in eastern Canada, the report shows. Prince Edward Island, where the industry began, has a third of all the establishments operated in Canada. Farmers in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where fox-raising is a recent development, have shown marked interest in the industry as a profitable farm side line.

First "Postal Service"

The Greek soldier and historian, Xenophon, attributes the first couriers to Cyrus, the Persian king. The Romans had no regular couriers until the time of the first emperor, Augustus, who reigned from 27 B. C. to 14 A. D. Couriers or posts are said to have been introduced into France by Charlemagne about A. D. 800.

Causes of Crashes and Crackles in Receiver.

(F. M. Russell.)

It is not long before the new owner of a receiver becomes aware there are other noises or sounds coming through the loud speaker than those sent out by the broadcasting station. Some nights the programs come in with such clearness and freedom from noises that you can almost imagine the performer or orchestra is in the next room with you. Yet the very next night the selections received from the same station are so marred by crashes and crackles that it is impossible to get any pleasure from listening in at all.

Atmospherics, or statics as it is generally called, is due in most cases to atmospheric storms or lightning that is in the air between the station you are receiving and your receiver. If you have ever listened in during a thunderstorm (a very unwise proceeding), you will have noticed that every time a flash of lightning occurred you got a crash in your headphones or speaker. In this way you have actual proof that atmospheric disturbances radiate waves which are picked up by your receiver and are amplified by it.

You have no doubt had your reception spoiled at times by code interference. The dots and dashes are produced by a discharge between two electrodes in the transmitter. A lightning discharge is really a long spark discharge occurring between an electrified cloud and the earth or another cloud, and produces a wave of effect exactly similar to that of the spark from the transmitter.

Generally, static disturbances are at their worst during the early hours of the evening, in most cases between 8 and 10 p. m. Very often it is so bad during these hours that reception from any but local stations is impossible. On trying again later in the evening you often find that the static has practically disappeared and reception can be enjoyed once more. There are several ways in which the effects of static can be minimized greatly, and these will be described during the next few days.

A Cosmopolitan Production

Adapted by CAREY WILSON
Directed by MONTA BELL

HERE is the greatest picture Marion Davies ever starred in—the charming successor to "Little Old New York." It's adventure-crowded with the most stirring age in American history—the epic days when New York and Broadway were young and gay!

Marion Davies again proves herself one of the greatest of screen comediennes. You'll scream with laughter at her escapades. You'll be touched, too, by this stirring story of a love that flowered amidst the strife and passions of a great metropolis in the making.

See New York when—riot blazed in its streets, and passions ran wild

the great inventor was called "that fool Edison!" and his electric-light project "Edison's Folly"

Broadway and 42nd Street was in the country

Tony Pastor's was in its glory

chewing gum was "the newest discovery of the age, the delight of the drawing room" romance lived, and adventure stalked the streets.

SEEKING PLAN TO AVOID TIE GAMES

Football Rule Makers Will Try to Find Solution at Next Gathering.

When the football rules committee holds its next annual session two major issues dealing with the scoring system in football will be up for renovation. One deals with the indecisive tie game and the other with the extra point after touchdown.

Agitation against both issues has developed in all sections of the country as a result of a wholesale number of tie games and the great number of contests decided by the point after touchdown which, it is claimed by many critics, puts too great a penalty on a team matching one touchdown with another.

Football's scoring rules are unique in that they provide no relief for the tie game. No other major American college sport outside of track and field, fails to supply a means of breaking deadlocks.

The extra point after touchdown was incorporated in the play with the idea of breaking ties, but it does not appear to be generally effective.

In the East this year 14 games have resulted in tie scores, while seven have been decided by the extra point after touchdown.

While opponents of the extra point after touchdown feel that there is little likelihood of any change in this ruling next year, they contend the rule makers will endeavor to bring about a satisfactory solution of the tie problem.

Fownes to Be President

William C. Fownes, Jr. of Pittsburgh, former amateur golf champion of the United States, has been nominated officially on the regular ticket for president of the United States Golf association. The list will be submitted at the annual meeting in Chicago in January.

Peckinpaugh's Bobbles Cost Teammates $50,000

Baseball fans, reluctant to put the old game in moth balls until the ivory domes head for the South next spring still are discussing Roger Peckinpaugh's record-breaking performance in the world series. And as the fans always love to flock to "figgers," one of them has discovered that each time the butter-fingered Washington shortstop bobbled a ball, or threw one crooked to first or second base, he cost his teammates $6,250 in cold hard cash. Fred Snodgrass, of the Giants, once made a $30,000 muff in the last inning of the last game of a world series but Peck was far more consistent, and persistent in his misplay, and finally on eight chances built up a deficit of approximately $50,000. His last misplay in Pittsburgh, paving the way for three runs could have been written down as a $50,000 bobble, if it hadn't been for all of its predecessors.

Committee on Rules May Bar "Love" in Tennis

It's likely that they'll take this "love" stuff right out of tennis during the annual rules pow-wows this winter—and do the same thing concerning the expression "deuce" which is used in scoring.

Long, long ago when tennis first became a sport somebody—perhaps a jilted suitor—decided that his concrete idea of what love meant to him should be perpetuated. So he had 'em use the word "love" in the game of tennis. And "love" means "nothing"—or a scoreless condition.

"Love" and "deuce" fitted into tennis while it was a nice refined game indulged in mostly by the nicest of our younger set. But now that it's a he-man game—well, it looks like curtains for "love" and "deuce."

Haskell Indian School Depends on Grid Games

Football is a popular sport at the Haskell Indian school. It is the sole support of athletics there. It pays the salary of the director of physical education for girl students among other departments. A new stadium is also being constructed without the aid of the government that will seat 15,000 persons. None but Indian contributions will be received. One wealthy Indian who has made his fortune in lead and zinc contributed one month's income. It amounted to $11,000. Another wealthy Indian contributed $25,000. Haskell will be the home attraction at Lawrence next fall opening the stadium.

Halfback	Wilson, Wash.	Hubert, Ala.	Tryon, Colgate
Halfback	Oberlander, Dart.	Slagle, Princeton	McCarty, Chi.
Fullback	Nevers, Stamford	Flournoy, Tulane	Wycoff, Geo. Tech.

The unfortunate individual, of fable and fancy, who was caught with a sieve when it began to rain duck soup may now look back upon his life with the philosophic serenity of one to whom blessings are not unknown. He wasn't a backfield man during the late football season.

Never before in the history of the sport have so many good backs been turned loose during one and the same campaign.

The country simply was overrun with bright young men who were willing to start at the top and work upward and one could guarantee to hit an all-American backfield candidate with a handful of cigar ashes at any given time, place and distance.

The Backfields.

This means that, with only eleven positions on three All-American teams to be distributed, many a deserving youth must run for the end bench. The writer has named Grange, Wilson, Oberlander and Nevers for his first team backfield; Friedman, Hubert, Slagle and Flournoy are found in the second team combination and Kaer, Tryon, McCarty and Wycoff in the third. One could reverse the order and the first team might suffer little or not at all.

However, few will take issue with the statement that Grange and Oberlander belong, in spite of the fact that one local critic did go so far as to place Grange on his third team. This is a good trick, whether you do it or not.

Grange Quarterback.

The fact that Grange played quarterback for at least half of the campaign eliminates Friedman from first team consideration, although the University of Michigan probably will want the writer shot long before sunrise. Hubert also is a plausible candidate and the south thinks he is the greatest thing that ever happened; yet it doesn't seem logical to remove men like Wilson and Nevers over for a player of Hubert's status.

Neither does it seem logical to overlook such as Haggerty and Plansky, of Georgetown; Keefer, of Brown; Rhoades of Nebraska; Whiteman of Missouri; Imlay and Griffin, of California; Kreuz, of Pennsylvania; Britton of Illinois; Carr of Syracuse; Cory, of Ames; Molenda, of Michigan; Hewitt and Wilson, of the Army; Kirkleski, of Lafayette; Borelli, of Muhlenberg and a dozen others.

Brown At Center.

Oddly enough, they are few outstanding figures among the forwards, barring Weir, of Nebraska, and Brown of Michigan. Both will come pretty close to being unanimous choices for the team this season, although some have questioned the consistency of Brown's passing at centre. Weir, however, is foolproof.

Brown has two great rivals in Hutchinson, of Nebraska, and McMillan, of Princeton, and Lowery of North Western is a third. Hutchinson and Weir are the men who stopped Grange for two straight seasons while McMillan's play against Yale and Harvard was beautiful to behold. It seems almost a misdemeanor to put him on the third team.

Weir Greatest Tackle.

Weir is the great tackle of the year, the others being merely good. Lindenmeyer, of Missouri, probably was the most consistent and the writer places him on the first team, although Chace, of Pittsburgh, is a most highly esteemed individual. Sprague, of the Army; Parker of Dartmouth; Erickson, of Washington; Wilcox, of Oklahoma; Henderson, of Chicago; Nelson, of Wisconsin; Lyons, of Amherst; Kearney, of Cornell, and Sieracki, of Pennsylvania, were among the leaders at the position but the quality of tackle play was nothing this year, on the whole.

Oosterbaan and Tully, Ends.

The ends, however, were good and Oosterbaan, of Michigan, and Tully, of Dartmouth, are believed to be the best. They were great receivers of the pass and the rest of their work on attack and defense was above reproach. Sloan, of Drake, was an excellent man. So was Born, of the Army, particularly against Notre Dame and the Navy. Hanson of Syracuse, was good in the early season but later flopped a bit.

Other good ones were Dilwig, Marquette; Thayer and Singer, Pennsylvania, Wagner, Columbia, Cunningham, Ohio State; Broda, Brown; Kassel, Illinois; Bacchus, Missouri; Baker, Kansas; Lampe, Chicago; Pulaski, Wisconsin; Shikey, Stanford; Oliker, West Virginia, and Romey, Iowa.

The Best Guards.

Taylor, Southern California, and Diehl, Dartmouth, have been selected as first string guards. The choice might just as well have fallen upon Hawkins, Michigan, and Hess, Ohio State, this quartet being remarkably well matched in general capabilities. Mitterwallner, Illinois, played great football against Pennsylvania. So did Kilgour, Harvard, against Yale, but the first four named were more consistent.

Godwin, Georgia Tech; Carey, Cornell; Sturhahan, Yale; Ewart, Drake; Hanson, Minnesota; Sanborn, Kansas; Scholz, Nebraska; Boosem, Lafayette; Schmidt, Army; Mahan, West Virginia; Dagrosse, Colgate; McGee, Kansas Aggies; Carey, California; Lang, W. and J.; Swan, Sanford, and Stipek, Wisconsin, were among the leaders at the position.

CENTRAL HUDSON SYSTEM EXTENDING ITS LINES.

Quality—and nothing else but!

QUALITY—that's Prince Albert all over. Just about the finest, kindest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar or corncob. We said "kindest." That means P. A.'s consideration for your tongue and throat. No bite. No parch. Nothing but cool comfort, refreshing as a breeze from the sea.

P. A. can't bite or parch. The Prince Albert process takes care of that. You can go to it from the minute you finish breakfast until you sign off at night. Slow or fast. P. A.'s quality makes you want to smoke pipe-load after pipe-load. You'll never say "quit," and that's a fact.

Yes, sir! You'll have the little old world by the tail when you sign up with this big-league smoke. Sitting pretty and no mistake. Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. sifts into your system and knocks pipe-peeves galley west.

Quality, you bet. And quantity too. You get TWO full ounces to the tin when you buy Prince Albert. (Look at the U.S. revenue stamp.) Let's get going. Slip into top-speed and head for the shop that hands out smoke-gladness in tidy red tins, marked "Prince Albert." Today!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound the handsome, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bite and puff removed by the Prince Albert process.

Smoke the U.S. revenue stamp—there are TWO full ounces in every tin.

Pension Plans In Practice

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 30.—Caring for the workers who have grown old in its service is a problem for industry to work out for itself, in the view of leading industrial executives as reflected in an exhaustive research report on "Industrial Pensions in the United States," just completed by the National Industrial Conference Board of 247 Park avenue.

The voluntary assumption by private industry itself of "such responsibility for the welfare of its personnel and the improvement of industrial relations as it is capable of discharging efficiently,' 'is favored as in harmony with American ideals of individual initiative and independence."

Pension Plan Aims Realized.

The available evidence, according to the Board's report, points to the conclusion that the aims aid purposes of pension plans are realized in practice, not in all cases, or in every particular in every individual case, but on the whole. It is sharply emphasized, however, that the industrial pension problem is one of the most intricate confronting industry, and that pension plans to a large extent are "still in the experimental stage." While industrial pensioning is perfectly feasible if properly organized and administered, according to the report, the cumulatice character and rapidly mounting costs of pensions too often are not properly appraised, and the necessity of funding any pension plan on a scientific basis if future embarrassment is to be avoided is stressed with recurrent emphasis.

While actual advice in establishing a pension plan is deemed expedient by some executives, the task of correctly estimating and properly funding the cost of a pension plan is by no means beyond the ability or resource of industrial management, the report declares. In its study of the problem, however, the Conference Board has encountered considerable objection to making the functioning of a pension plan an automatic procedure by turning over the entire administration of such plan to an outside agency.

Organizing Pension Plans.

The report offers advice for the organization, financing and administering of pension plans, embodying the principles and practical considerations of the pension problem as illustrated by the study of the experience with 248 different "formal" plans conducted by 245 different firms, and 148 additional "informal" pension plans operated on an individual merit and discretionary basis. The investigation of the Conference Board has aimed to include every pension plan operative in private industrial, mercantile and financial establishments, including those conducted by railroads public utilities and several semi-public institutions, and the coverage is believed by the board to be virtually complete within these limits.

In its study the Conference Board has had the cooperation of an advisory committee composed of the following: C. S Ching, U. S. Rubber Company; William B. Foster, E. I DuPont de Nemours and Company; E. K Hall, American Telephone & Telegraph Company; M. Harrison, Hammermill Paper Company; C. J. Hicks, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; J. M. Larkin, Bethlehem Steel Company; Louise Moore, Dutchess Manufacturing Company; Thomas G Spates, Richard Hellman, Inc.; A. H. Young, Curtis, Fosdick & Belknap; Jarrett Morford, National Industrial Conference Board, committee secretary.

COTTEKILL W. C. T. U. ELECTS OFFICERS

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Cottekill held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Garten Keator recently at which officers were elected for the coming year. They were: Mrs L. O. Bilyou, president; Mrs. Jacob Barley, vice-president; Mrs. Harry Snyder, treasurer; Mrs. Anna Satterlee, secretary; Mrs Jennie DeWitt, corresponding secretary.

Superintendents were also appointed for different departments of work as follows. Miss Inez Satterlee, press work, Mrs John Aiken, flower mission and relief work; Mrs Richard Emerick, scientific and medical temperance; Mrs. Jacob Bailey, Sabbath observance; Mrs. Uriah Barrenger, social meetings and red letter days; Mrs John Short, mother's day meetings.

The union was presented at this meeting with a gavel from Mrs Mabel W. Gilbert, vice-president of a Niagara Falls union which is prized very highly on account of being used to organize a woman's order of the Ku Klux Klan at Niagara Falls.

The next meeting will be held in December at the home of Mrs. Uriah Barrenger

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

WHEN making cake for everyday occasions the ordinary bread flour is the most economical But for a fine grained cake of delicate texture, pastry flour is the best.

Sponge Pound Cake.

Beat one-half cupful of butter to a cream, add the grated rind of a lemon and gradually beat in one-half cupful of sugar and the beaten yolks of four eggs. one cupful of flour sifted with a tablespoonful of cornstarch and a tea spoonful of baking powder, lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a loaf for thirty or forty minutes

Ribbon Cake.

Cream a scant cupful of butter, add gradually two and one-third cupfuls of sugar, then add four eggs, one after another without previous beating. Sift four cupfuls of flour with four and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add to the first mixture alternately with one cupful of milk Beat thoroughly Bake two thirds of the mixture in two layer tins. Add to the remainder one cupful of nut meats, one-half cupful each of cherries, citron and raisins, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, two teaspoonfuls of molasses, one half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves When baked put the layers together with fruit jelly cover with boiled frosting and decorate with halves of walnut meats

Simple Dessert.

Butter slices of bread and place in a baking [illegible] with canned blue berries and [illegible] stand an hour, then bake until [illegible] heated through Serve with cream and sugar Other juicy fruit may be used for this pudding.

THE LOVELY RIVER

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S a lovely river
Flowing to the sea,
Though I know not where it flows,
What the end may be.
There are many rapids there,
But the flow'rs are very fair
All along, and green the trees,
Bright the sun, and sweet the breeze.

There's a lovely river
(Men may call it Life),
Lovely though it has its pain,
Though it has its strife
There is joy in every pain,
Seldom loss without a gain,
Yes, whatever men may say,
Blossoms all along the way.

There's a lovely river—
I have found it so,
Though I know not where it ends,
Where its waters flow.
Though I know not where it ends,
All along it has its friends,
Has its friendships through its tears,
Growing deeper with the years.

Dear me, lovely river,
Downward to the sea,
Though I know not where you flow,
What the end may be.
I am sure a stream so good,
Flowing through so fair a wood,
Bears me to a wider strand,
To an even better land.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

SEEK THE BEST

IN THIS brief life of ours, of which we know but little compared with what there is yet to be learned, let us in earnestness and sincerity strive to seek the best.

While in our restricted world of time and space, of color and sound, of ignorance and hate, let us show ourselves capable of finding the good and choosing the best.

Let us seek the best in companions, irrespective of their good looks or their ability to dance or sing; let quality of heart and mind be given precedence over everything else

Let us be liberal in sympathy, in kindness, in friendship, in loyalty and in charity, with malice toward none, and give to the deserving the best we can bestow, regardless of their race, creed or condition

Let us read the best books hear the best music, see the best in art, choose the best plays and seek to find in the unruly boy or girl his or her best quality and do our utmost to develop it into a shining gem of beauty

The latter, perhaps, may be found the best thing we can do for humanity and ourselves, for any exertion we may put forth in this direction, we will find in our solitary hours of reflection a serene happiness which the combined wealth of nations cannot buy.

To the complaining, the critical, the envious the proud and the obdurate those hopeless persons with ailing minds, give a warm smile and kindly greeting—the best of which you are capable, and observe from day to day how you are bringing into their pinched lives a gladness which even you may have thought impossible

Make it a habit of choosing the best, in a little while will be found of incalculable benefit to the man or woman who in real sincerity adopts it

But this cannot be done without sacrifice

Such work requires a spiritual firmness, an unselfish love and extreme patience which as the years roll by develops a fine nobility of soul, recognized at a glance in a cheerful face and beaming eyes

Christmas Seal Proclamation

Issued by Governor Smith Who Commends Them to the People During the Month of December.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Governor Smith in the following proclamation issued today approves and formally inaugurates the Eighteenth National Christmas Seal Sale being conducted by the Tuberculosis and Public Health Associations throughout New York state:

PROCLAMATION
State of New York
Executive Chamber
Albany.

Next to the gift of life is that of health—the physical vigor and soundness of body by which life is made fruitful and enjoyable. Christmas Seals sold annually in New York state and throughout the nation during the holiday season, bring the inestimable treasures of health to many stricken with tuberculosis and support a remarkable program of prevention.

The sale of seals is carried on by committees of public-spirited citizens cooperating with official health authorities. Opportunity is offered to every individual through the purchase of seals, to join in this great national, state and community campaign for health.

New York state is a pioneer in organized effort for the cure and prevention of tuberculosis. The work of the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau at Saranac Lake was the beginning of the modern successful treatment of this disease, and many of the present sanatoria methods originated without our boundaries. Since 1907, various state and local organizations of citizens which direct the sale of seals in this territory have brought home to the people the latest scientific knowledge about tuberculosis, starting new lines of preventive work, and showing that these activities are of practical value and suitable for the public authorities to assume and maintain.

While the death rate from tuberculosis throughout the nation has been cut in half during the past two decades, yet during the most productive years of life, from twenty to fifty, the White Plague continues to kill more people than any other disease. Progress will continue in the degree that humane and public-spirited citizens assist and support this great work carried on by the state and local committees on tuberculosis and public health in conjunction with the state and local health authorities.

Therefore, I, Alfred E. Smith, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim the month of December as the period of the Eighteenth Annual Christmas Seal Sale, and I commend this cause to the charitable impulses of the people of our commonwealth.

Given under by hand and the Privy Seal of the State at the Capitol in the City of Albany (Seal) this thirtieth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

(Signed) ALFRED E. SMITH.

Holy Cross Fair Opens Tuesday

Interesting Program Planned—Tea and Musicale Tuesday Afternoon—Card Party, Cakewalk, Supper and Other Features—Beautiful Gifts for Sale.

The annual Holy Cross fair will open Tuesday afternoon in Holy Cross parish house with a Colonial tea and musicale at which the Misses Edith Mayer and Josephine Helsmoortel and Herman La Tour will sing, and Walter J Kidd, Jr., will play. In the evening a mammoth card party will be held under the chairmanship of Mrs C Arthur Dolson.

Wednesday evening will be known as "Plantation Days," when there will be singing of negro songs by a male quartet, a solo dance by Miss Priscilla Davis and a cakewalk, with all the gaudiness that such an event calls for. The following couples will walk for the cake: William Hasbrouck and Miss Julia Burgevin, Miss Helen Van Wagenen and Elsinge Burgevin, Miss Dorothy Caunitz and Robert Bonesteel, Miss Natalie DeWitt and Frederick H. Burgevin, Miss Millicent McLaughlin and Bert Davis. An orchestra will play for dancing.

Thursday evening a hot chicken supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Aid Society, Mrs Thomas Daley catering.

The hall is handsomely decorated and a number of booths have beautiful handmade articles of all descriptions for sale, homemade candy, fancy work, useful articles, gifts for children, handmade children's clothes. Mrs Frederick B. Hibbard is chairman, while Miss Morningstar, Mrs. Charles Braley, Miss Lillian Powell, Miss Helen Schoonmaker, Mrs William D. Brinnier, Miss Ella Garrison and Mrs George Burgevin are in charge of booths, assisted by a number of other ladies. Mrs. James O. Winston and Mrs. George DeForest Smith are in charge of the tea to be held Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Braley and Miss Julia Burgevin are arranging the entertainment for Wednesday evening.

Air Transport

More than 28,000,000 miles have been flown in Europe and the United States to January 1, 1925, in regular scheduled air service, and in six years more than 51,000,000 pounds have been carried by aircraft over established routes, writes J. Parker Van Zandt of the Department of Commerce in the Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers. A careful analysis of this experience will give us the facts that we so much need regarding the air traffic program, continues Mr. Van Zandt, who made a special trip to Europe during the summer of 1924 to investigate the commercial air services there.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, Nov. 30.—Preaching services will be held in the M. E. Church next ednesday evening, December 9, conducted by the Rev. W. W. Churchill of Kerhonkson.

Nile Hornbeck, who spent the summer season at Lake Mohonk, has returned home for the winter.

The Misses Edna, Ethel and Louella Hornbeck, Mrs. Norman Quick and little son, Vincent, and Mrs. Quick's father, Mr. Jollie, were pleasantly entertained as guests at the home of Mrs. Chester Wynkoop at Tabasco last Wednesday.

Those who were guests at the home of Mrs. Eliza C. DeWitt Sunday, November 22, were: Mrs. Leonard Van Etten and son, Harold Van Etten of Upper Mombaccus, Mrs. Alex. Brown and daughter, Miss Katherine, of this place, Jacob DeWitt, Jr., of Mohonk and Norman DeWitt of Poughkeepsie. A very enjoyable day was spent by all.

Otis Miller has returned to Lake Mohonk after a two weeks' vacation at the home of his parents.

Grover Smith and son, Kenneth Smith, of Ellenville spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Phebe Krom, Saturday and Sunday, November 21 and 22.

Fred Brown of Hyde Park came over on his motorcycle and spent Thanksgiving Day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brown.

Ralph Hornbeck has been making a number of improvements to his house. Mr. Sawyer of Ulster Heights did the carpenter and mason work.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Miller of Krumville spent last Wednesday at the home of Mr. Miller's mother, Mrs. Jane Miller at Mettacahonts.

William Hornbeck is ill.

Harry F. Brown of New Rochelle has been enjoying the Thanksgiving holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brown.

Mrs. L. E. Lawrence was a caller at the home of Mrs. Vernon Barnhart last Monday afternoon.

Jacob H. Baker and son Edison of Mettacahonts were callers recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brown.

Mrs. Uriah Quick was a guest for dinner at the home of Mrs. Eliza C. DeWitt of Accord Thursday.

Mrs. Calvin Davis of Accord was visiting at her former home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Irwin of Catskill are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter, Kathryn Louise, born November 24. Mrs. Irwin was Miss Emily Quick, formerly of this place.

The Rev. W. W. Churchill preached a fine Thanksgiving sermon last Wednesday evening, November 25.

Several friends from Kerhonkson attended the church service.

William Jollie and son Martin Jollie of Rochester City are spending two weeks at the home of Mr. Jollie's daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Quick in this place and also are visiting with relatives in Ellenville.

Many friends in this place are sorry to hear of the Rev. N. L. Henry having the misfortune of falling and breaking his shoulder at his home in Accord recently. Mr. Henry was a former pastor of the Leibhardt M. E. Church for nearly five years during the late World War. All hope for his recovery. Dr. Munson of Wawarsing was called to set the broken bone.

There was no school the past week, owing to illness of the teacher, Mrs. Krom.

Montcena DeWitt has been one of the lucky trappers and hunters in place this fall.

Those who have been ill with colds and grip are all on the gain.

George Oakley, who has spent three months at the home of his son, Fred Oakley, at Hyde Park, has returned to the home of his daughter, Mrs. William J. Brown for the winter.

RADIO

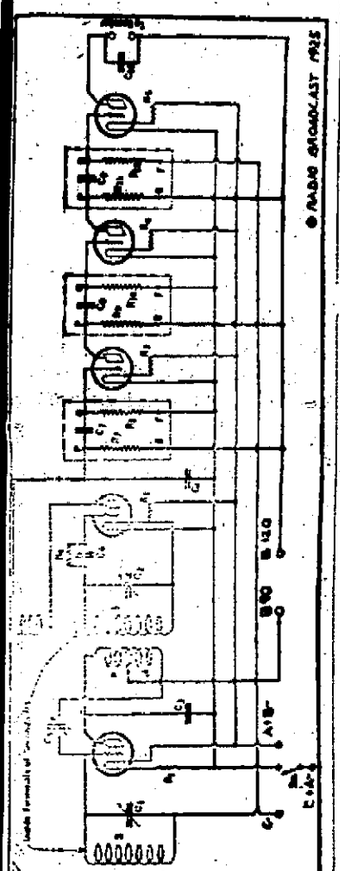

If you have a nonregenerative receiver and you desire to listen into pure CW code signals, the above method will be the solution. L1 consists of 50 turns of No. 22 DCC wire wound on a 3½-inch tubing and tapped at every third turn. C1 is a .0005 mfd. variable condenser. The arrow coming from the A minus is the only variable portion of the coil and goes to the 16 taps. By varying these taps, closer or looser coupling between the plate and the grid can be obtained. Use a UV 201A tube with 67½ volts on the plate.—Radio World.

Sixteen Stations in Three Minutes

Ideal Radio Receiver With but One Main Tuning Control.

One of the chief problems of the home constructor is that of trying to combine sensitivity with quality. It is generally admitted that the superheterodyne represents the utmost in sensitivity but then, on local stations the quality is not what it might be. Possibly this accounts for the fact that many set manufacturers are no longer making a superheterodyne model but are going back to straight radio-frequency amplification. Many receivers on the market only employ a single state of R. F. which will be found quite sufficient for general purposes. Two stages will only complicate tuning, or if single control is employed, the full value of the two stages is often not obtained.

The Five-Tube Aristocrat Receiver.

"For a very long time we have been looking for the kind of receiver which would be easy to build, easy to operate and at the same time be comparatively economical," writes Arthur H. Lynch in the new Radio Broadcast Magazine. "In the receiver described here, will be found what we consider a solution of the problem. There is but one main tuning control which makes the finding of stations so simple that a child can secure surprising results. In an actual demonstration, we have been able to show that by means of this single control and no other adjustments whatever, it was possible to hear sixteen stations in less than three minutes, with a single turn of the tuning dial. When other adjustments were made—and where is a DX fan who will not want to be certain that he is getting the last drop of energy out of his set?—we have been able to secure distance with volume, which few receivers other than a superheterodyne could have accomplished. And above all, we have been able to secure tone quality which has been described by many of the radio designers and enthusiasts who have come to witness the performance of our new outfit, as being far superior to most receivers they have seen or heard. We believe this receiver will do much to endear radio to those music lovers who up to the present time have felt that radio reproduction was not sufficiently free from flaws to produce the music they love with true fidelity.

Famous for Tone Quality.

"In the Radio Broadcast 'Aristocrat' there is one stage of tuned, neutralized, radio-frequency amplification, a regenerative detector, and three stages of resistance-coupled amplification. Before going, let it be said that the resistance-coupled amplification employed should not be confused with similar systems described in the past because it is now possible to maintain tone quality, for which this type of amplifier is famous, together with great volume, due to the foresightedness of some of the tube manufacturers who are now marketing what are known as high-Mu tubes. These tubes are specially designed for resistance-coupled amplification and the amplification per stage which is obtainable with them is far greater than has heretofore been generally possible.

"As was mentioned above, tuning is accomplished by a single dial. This dial is used to control a Hanscom single-control unit and is the main tuning control. It is a unique arrangement of two Remler condensers, geared together in a manner which makes tuning of the antenna and radio-frequency circuits simultaneous. The panel is 7 by 18 inches and there is plenty of room on it for all the equipment necessary, when a sub-base is employed.

"The tuning inductances and the variable condenser assembly, antenna switch and battery switch are mounted on the main panel, while all the remaining equipment is either on the top or bottom of a 2½ by 17½-inch subpanel, which is suspended from the main panel by means of Benjamin No. 000 brackets. On the upper side of the subpanel are mounted the five tube sockets, three resisto-couplers, the grid condenser and leak mounting, and the variable neutralizing condenser. It is also possible to find room for all the binding posts, including those for the three connections for the C battery, if they are thought to be desirable. On the under side of the subpanel there are five mountings which are used for the filament ballast resistors. All these points are clarified by the illustrations of the original article in Radio Broadcast Magazine.

Lists of Parts.

The list of parts used is as follows:

One 7 by 18 panel.
One 2½ by 17½ subpanel.
One Hanscom S. C. condenser unit.
One set Eastern knockout coils.
One Carter filament switch.
Two Apex knobs.
Five Benjamin sockets.
Three Daven resisto-couplers with three .1 megohm resistors and one each 1 meg., .5 meg., and .25 meg. resistors.
One Hammarlund neutralizing condenser.
Two .004 Sangamo fixed condensers.
One Dubilier .5 microfarad by-pass condenser.
Six Daven No. 50 mountings.
One Daven leakandenser (a new unit which combines the grid condenser and leak).
Five Daven ballast resistors (the capacity of these resistors depends on the type of the tubes used).
One Belden standard color, five wire cable.
Two Benjamin No. 000 brackets.
Two to six Eby binding posts.
Two dozen 6 or 8-32 round head, brass machine screws, ¾ inch long.
About six 2-foot lengths of bus bar.

"The five ballast resistors are shown in the diagram as R1-2-3-4-5. The selection of these will depend entirely on the types of tubes employed. The ideal combination of tubes consists in the use of two ordinary six-volt storage battery tubes for the radio-frequency amplifier and the detector, two high-Mu tubes for the first two stages of audio, with a semipower tube in the first stage. Some tubes will work satisfactorily without any resistance in the filament circuit when used as amplifiers."

How Sunset Blights Radio Communication

Next to static electricity, sunset is the greatest deterrent to efficient transatlantic radio telephone communication that nature exerts. During the past two years daily tests across the ocean have been made.

Summarized these show that during the winter months satisfactory conversation can be carried on all hours of the day with the exception of that period when sunset is making its progress across the 3,000-mile expanse of water separating the old and new worlds. During the summer months commercial telephone communication is possible during the morning, evening and night hours, exclusive of heavy static periods, the tests show.—Collier's.

Ducks Have Air Routes

Wild ducks follow "passes" the same as a train follows the railroad. Up in Minnesota and North Dakota the sportsmen lease up all the points on the lakes covered by the duck "passes." They know the ducks will fly along such passes. Of the 10,000 lakes in Minnesota there are perhaps 2,000 in which a wild duck is never seen.—Capper's Weekly.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 30.—A reactionary tone in the motor and industrial stocks, good buying of prime and speculative railroad stocks at a higher range of values, and a mixed trend in oil, copper, sugar and equipment stocks, were the principal features of today's stock market. The 5½ per cent call loan rate, caused by heavy withdrawals from the call market for the December settlements, and a handicap to the forward movement of prices and any of the pool stocks were under such pressure that they never approximated Saturday's closing price levels.

General Motors, Chrysler, Hudson, United States Rubber, Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric, and other of the so-called speculative leaders dropped back from 2 to 7 points in irregular trading up to the end of the third hour.

Speculative rails sold near the top prices of the year. The dividend rails, under the lead of Atchison and New York Central, were in good form and commanded slightly higher prices

Another spurt in the mercantile stocks, under the lead of Gimbel Brothers, brought prices of most of these stocks to the highest level of the movement. The sugar stocks made a better showing, as also did radio, industrial alcohol and other stocks which were under pressure last week.

Most of the industrial developments of the day were favorable and there was a disposition to expect easier call rates after the December settlements had been completed on Tuesday or Wednesday. French francs snapped back to around four cents, completing a 25 point gain since the middle of last week. Outside markets were heavy, with grain and cotton prices showing moderate recessions from last week's closing range.

Finds Murdered Man Under Bed

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 30.—Miss Margaret Pirie, 16, was thrown into hysterics early today when, upon returning home, she found a man—murdered—under her bed.

The slain man was later identified as George Nye, 19, son of a retired fireman, of the Bronx.

He was a friend of Margaret's brother, Gordon Pirie, 20. The police began looking for Pirie to determine whether he could throw any light on the slaying

Miss Pirie, who returned shortly after midnight after a two day visit with relatives, screamed when she made the gruesome discovery. The victim's skull had been crushed by blows from a heavy instrument. Cement sacks were bound about his head. He had been dead two or three hours when found by the girl, physicians said. He was clad only in a sailor's pea jacket and dungaree trousers.

Detectives found no signs of a struggle having taken place but in the bath room they discovered some blood stained bed clothing.

Neighbors told police of having heard men's voices in the apartment.

Rev. Alfred Coons Dead at Home

Silvertip Showed He Could Cover Ground

Any one who has seen a bear walk knows how slowly he seems to move and his run is a shuffling, lumbering gait that is comical to witness, unless he happens to be running after you. But a bear moves pretty fast, notwithstanding appearances, and the grizzly, which looks to be clumsier than the brown or the black bear, can cover ground faster than the average horse.

A western sheep rancher was riding in the foothills when he saw a big awkward silvertip. He had a rifle but was not certain he could kill the bear at one shot and knew that he would get into trouble if he missed. So he gave a regular cowboy yell, and the bear started away in alarm.

The man gave chase, at the same time keeping up the yelping yell, and he soon noticed that the grizzly was getting farther away. He continued the chase for nearly two miles, until the bear disappeared in the mountains, and he had not gained a foot.

In going back over the trail he noticed places where the bear had made jumps of 15 or 20 feet, and the ground had been cut up by his claws, so that it looked as if a furrow had been run over it.

U. & D. Drops Two Passenger Trains

Adds Combination Coaches to Two Milk Trains to Care for Traffic—Railroad Losing Money Is Testimony Before Public Service Hearing.

That the Ulster & Delaware railroad is losing money was the testimony given by Superintendent Phelps of the railroad before E. D. Burkhart, assistant engineer of the public service commission, at a hearing held Friday afternoon at Oneonta on the protest of the Oneonta Chamber of Commerce against the action of the railroad in dropping two passenger trains from service.

Four witnesses were examined before Mr. Burkhart at the hearing on Friday, Secretary E. J. MacEwan of the Oneonta Chamber of Commerce, Postmaster Frank G. Sherman of Oneonta, Cashier S. C. Robinson of the National Bank of Stamford and Superintendent Phelps.

Before adjournment was taken, the attorneys for the parties uniting in the protest asked Mr. Burkhart to request the railroad to continue the operation of the two trains to be discontinued pending the final decision of the commission, but this Mr. Burkhart declined to do and the proposed time table changes became effective today.

In dropping the two passenger trains from the winter schedule, one from Oneonta and one from Kingston, the railroad has added combination coaches to the two milk trains to care for the traffic.

At the hearing Friday the railroad was represented by Attorney A. L. O'Connor of Hobart and Judge James P. Grant of Stamford with President Edward Coykendall and Superintendent Phelps. The communities filing protests were represented by Attorneys D. H. Grant and Owen C. Decker of Oneonta and Ralph S. Ives of Ives & Craft of Roxbury.

The hearing was adjourned to Tuesday, December 8, at Oneonta.

BUSINESS NOTICES

Have your Xmas Club Checks cashed at Kerley's, 322 East Strand.

Xmas Clubs Will Pay Out $287,700

Early this month the various banks of Kingston that have maintained Christmas Clubs the past year will send out checks totalling $287,700 which have been saved by residents of Kingston in amounts ranging from as low as several cents to several dollars each week.

These Christmas Clubs have become institutions in Kingston since they were inaugurated by the local banks as it has proven an easy way of saving money for Christmas gifts. In addition to making the Christmas shopping easy they have afforded the means of householders putting aside each week sufficient funds to pay the coal bills and have money for the city taxes as well as other practical purposes.

The amounts of the clubs in the variout banks is as follows:

Kingston Trust Company and Branch	$126,000
First National Bank	50,000
Rondout National Baank	30,000
State of New York National Bank	30,000
National Ulster County Bank	51,700

New York Protests Assessment Jump

Whether New York city holdings in the town of Gilboa, Schoharie county, are worth $3,742,430, as alleged by town assessors, will be determined by a referee under orders issued Saturday by Justice Ellis J. Staley at a special term of supreme court at Albany. The city is protesting the valuation as exorbitant and has obtained a review of the action of the board. Justice Staley is expected to name a referee this week.

The main objection to the increased valuation in connection with the Gilboa dam, a water supply for New York city, is in connection with property directly associated with the dam. This property for 1925 is assessed for $3,736,640, while last year the figure was $108,631.

Assessors whose valuations are to be reviewed are Samuel Bliss, Charles Wallace and George Stannard. They were represented in court Saturday by W. H. Sidney of Central Bridge. New York city was represented by W. H. Grogan, special counsel of the law department.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Sarah A. Van Wagenen, wife of Albert S. Crapo, who died at her home in New Paltz Tuesday, November 24, was held in the Reformed Church, Friday last. Interment in New Paltz cemetery.

Word was received in this city today of the death of John W. Lawless, son of Mary and the late Michael Lawless of 42 Smith avenue. Mr. Lawless died at the United States Veterans' Hospital at Castle Point, N. Y. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Miss Helen Gertrude Hinkley, daughter of John and Kathryn McDonnell Hinkley, died at her home, 146 Spring street, Sunday. She is survived by her parents, two brothers, Richard and Aloysius, and two sisters, Kathryn and Mary. Funeral from the home on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Frank Kaufman a well-known and respected resident of this city died at his home, 11 Downs street, early Sunday evening. About a week ago he was seized with a paralytic stroke which resulted in his death. He is survived by his widow and one daughter Pauline at home, four sisters, Mrs. William Puffer of Hobart, Mrs. Robert A. Thompson of Hobart and Mrs. Dixon Thompson and Mrs. William Armstrong of Bovina Center and one brother, A. J. Kaufman of Margaretville. Mr. Kaufman who was a member of the Kingston Board of Health and for several years took great interest in the work of the board. Mr. Kaufman with his brother, the late Charles C. Kaufman came from Margaretville and organized the Kaufman Dairy and Ice Cream Company about 35 years ago, with headquarters on Downs street, alongside the Ulster & Delaware railroad. They also had supply stations in New York city. Frank Kaufman was superintendent of the Kingston plant, and his brother, Charles C., father of Surrogate George F. Kaufman, looked after the New York end of the business. When a few years ago the dairy and ice cream business was taken over by Judge John C. Van Etten and E. T. McGill, and later reorganized as the Kingston Milk Producers Creamery, Inc., of which John E. Kraft is president, Mr. Kaufman continued as its superintendent and manager. Because of his thorough knowledge of the milk and creamberiness he, as a member of the board of health was able to have the quality of the milk sold in this city kept at a high standard. Fraternally Mr. Kaufman was a member of the Knights of Pythias. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Defense Rests in Rhinelander Case

Quadroon Bride of Leonard Kip Rhinelander Escapes Ordeal of Witness Stand—Case May Go To Jury Late Tuesday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Alice Jones Rhinelander, quadroon bride of Leonard Kip Rhinelander, escaped the ordeal of the witness chair today when her counsel closed the defense without calling her to the stand in the Rhinelander marriage annulment trial. Shortly afterward testimony was completed.

Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander, denied that the failure to call Mrs. Rhineladeer was designed to disconcert the plaintiff's counsel or that he had feared to subject Alice to cross-examination.

Davis said the move was based partly on Alice's poor physical condition and partly for "strategic" reasons. Mrs. Rhinelander wept quietly through the proceedings this morning.

Denial by Justice Joseph Morschauser of a motion by Davis to dismiss the complaint and withdraw the case preceded the luncheon adjournment.

The court directed the jury that the question of Alice's color was out of the case as defendant's counsel had admitted her negro origin.

Justice Morschauser ordered the jury to ignore all the alleged post marital representations except those of significance as to Mrs. Rhinelander's intent. Young Rhinelander contends in his action that before they wed, his bride deceived him as to her color.

Counsel for both sides said they expected their summations to occupy three or four hours each. The case probably will go to the jury late tomorrow.

Law's Blunder Almost Justified by Facts

A dying confession by a waiter in a London garret revealed a tragic blunder which the law had made.

Five years before this confession, the landlord of the King's Head hotel, Banbury, had been hanged for the murder of one of his guests. This landlord was heavily in debt. One night a rich old gentleman stopped at his hotel and over drinks foolishly mentioned that he had the sum of $2,500 with him and hoped that it would be safe.

In the middle of the night Bradford, the landlord, with a long knife in his hand, crept into the old man's room, intent on getting the money, even if he had to kill the man for it. When he flashed his lantern on the bed he was amazed and horror-stricken to find the man with his throat cut from ear to ear.

In his terror Bradford shouted for help. Attracted by his cries, guests and servants dashed into the room, and found the landlord lying across the victim's bed with the knife in his hand.

With such evidence, no jury would acquit, and Bradford was hanged. Then came the confession, five years later, which showed that a serious error had been made. The confessor was employed as a waiter at the King's head. He had overheard the story the rich man had told the landlord and had anticipated his master in the grim deed.

Hope to Get Light on Aztec History

Aztec scrolls were destroyed by Spanish soldiers. The picture writing on cotton cloth and prepared skins, resembling somewhat Egyptian hieroglyphics, disappeared from the land where the Aztecs had ruled for more than two centuries. The ruins of their pillared palaces remained, as did their feather mosaics, their turquoise inlaid shields, their disk-like calendar so similar to that of the Mayas and forming a link now being used by scholars to connect up the prehistoric civilizations of South America and Mexico. But these scholars are still hunting for scrolls with figurative characters which will disclose just what part the Aztec kings played in the drama that unfolded its tragic episodes before Spanish influence became so strong in Mexico.

Should documents bearing the writings of these kings or their subjects be unearthed among the bars of gold and emeralds in that hidden cave near Tepantlan, now being explored, they will furnish material for a new and important chapter in the history of culture on this continent.

Riding Club to Elect Directors

A meeting of the members of the Kingston Riding and Driving Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the court house. At that time directors will be elected for the year. A week ago the annual meeting was called and at that time by-laws were adopted and nominations were made for directors but on account of the numerous names presented it was impossible to elect at that time and an adjournment was taken until this evening, when the names presented a week ago will be placed before the meeting and fifteen directors elected. Following the election of directors the board of directors will meet and elect officers. Officers need not be elected from the board of directors.

Philathea and Baracca Classes.

The monthly business meeting of the Philathea and Baracca Classes of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will not be held Tuesday evening of this week. The meetings have been postponed until Tuesday evening, December 8, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Grant Johnston, 202 West Chestnut street.

Early Vice Presidents

John Adams, who received the second highest number of votes, became vice president in the first and second administrations of George Washington. In the same way Jefferson was elected vice president in 1796 when Adams was elected President, and Aaron Burr took second place in 1800 when Jefferson was elected President. By the twelfth amendment to the Constitution, effective September 25, 1804, the electors were instructed to ballot separately for President and vice president. George Clinton was the first man nominated and elected to the office of vice president, being elected in November, 1804, when Jefferson was re-elected President.

WRITER NO FRIEND OF HOUSEHOLD PET

One Might Almost Think He Doesn't Like Cats.

Of all the impostors who sponge upon the kindness and forbearance of humanity, the cat is the only one that has no single redeeming feature, writes Nell Bell in the London Mail.

How long ago the cat came in from the wild to man's fireside no man may now even hazard a guess; but the only sure thing about that invasion is that the cat slunk in to serve its own selfish ends.

In the makeup of this sponging and hypocritical egoist is no particle of gratitude, of affection, of faithfulness, of pluck, or of honesty.

You may lavish love on one of these beasts, give it the best of fare, the easiest chair, the warmest corner of the hearth, put up with its contemptuous stare, its mincing gait and its evil temper for ten years; and then if you fall on hard times, this creature of mere appetite will leave you for the hand of any stranger that offers it food. Rats will indeed leave a sinking ship. The cat quits it at first sign of a leak.

The loving hand that has fed and cared for one of these cringing gluttons for a dozen years is no more sacred to it than the muzzle of a curious pup. It will turn and rend either with an equal abandon and zest at the slightest threat to its comfort.

The fact that cats were once worshiped in Egypt seems somehow to have become a racial memory with these animals. The haughty and insolent stare of a cat in possession of the best chair would provoke an angel to slaughter. A cat would not give up its seat to dying man; it would rob a sick child of its milk.

History is full of the noble deeds of dogs, of horses, of lions, of elephants—in fact, of most of the animals of the world. You may search the pages of history in vain for one instance of nobility, of faithfulness, or even affection to put to the credit of the cat.

George Wither, the Elizabethan poet, wrote "Hang sorrow; care will kill a cat." But, of course, the point is, as the genial Wither very well knew, cats don't care.

The really curious thing about the whole business is that people in their hearts are only too conscious of the cat's unloveableness; the most opprobrious thing one can say about another person, is, "What a cat!"

Reports Eskimos Dying Out

Dr. D. E. Scot, who recently returned from Edmonton, Alberta, after one year at Aklavik, in the delta of the Mackenzie river, predicted that not many years would elapse before the Eskimos would be exterminated by disease through adopting white men's ways of living. Eskimos and Indians of the delta are suffering from intestinal parasitic attacks, due to eating raw fish, rabbits and other meats, said the doctor, but these are not so serious a problem as cancer and appendicitis, which are becoming prevalent. Since the Eskimos have been living in cabins and shacks instead of snow houses, as in the old days, tuberculosis has ravaged them. Ninety per cent of the delta people had symptoms of tuberculosis, he asserted.

Noble Koreans Paupers

The Korean nobility, with the exception of a few propertied peers, is reported to be suffering from extreme poverty. Several of the nobles, who were once wealthy, are now working as cart pullers and performing other menial tasks as the only means of escaping starvation. At the time of the annexation of Korea to Japan, about sixty of the leading Koreans were created peers and received property from the Japanese government. Most of them ran through their property rapidly. Recently 30 of the impoverished Korean nobles sent a petition to the Japanese government asking for financial assistance.

Acquitted

Bill Austin, star clarinetist with the Elks' orchestra at the Catalina (Cal.) convention, decided he'd take up the saxophone. He thought he was doing fine until some of the neighbors came in and protested.

"For heaven's sake stick to your clarinet; that sax is no good. They must have sold you a lemon!"

"That must be it!" exclaimed Bill. "I thought it was my fault, but if the sax is a lemon, no wonder the notes are sour."

May "Fingerprint" Babies

An increase in the number of deserted babies in Ireland prompted the union commissioners to order that finger prints be taken of babies under three months of age who are discharged from the maternity hospital of Folestown. The action was inspired by a letter from Miss Duggan, a woman barrister, who pointed out that such a scheme would aid the police in discovering the mother or foster mother of a deserted child.

Greater Church Comfort

Some of the Lutheran churches of the country, in an effort to increase the summer attendance at church and Sabbath schools, are urging the adoption and installation of improved ventilation systems to compete with theaters which have adopted that modern comfort as a means of drawing the crowds.

Falling Off in Road Building

Bad Weather in October and November Cause Decrease of 1.48 Miles of Hard Road Built in State as Compared With 1924.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 30.—There was a slight falling off in the number of miles of hard road built in New York state in 1925 as compared with 1924, A. W. Brandt, commissioner of highways, revealed today.

Up to October 1, Commissioner Brandt said, 481.70 miles of road had been built as compared with 429.33 for the same period last year. Due to extremely bad weather in October and November, however, this increase was entirely wiped out and the season was closed with an actual decrease of 1.48 miles as compared with 1924.

In 1925, the highway commissioner said, contracts for the construction of 551.89 miles of road were awarded as compared with about 520.47 for the entire season of 1924. In addition, contracts were awarded this year for 110.28 miles of grading as compared with 29.82 miles for the entire season of 1924.

"Had it not been for the bad weather in October and November, we would have broken all past records for new roads in this state," said Commissioner Brandt. "Just when a new record was in sight, the weather turned cold and the rain started and we had to almost quit work."

In 1925, Brandt said, 547.37 miles of new road were laid as compared with 548.85 in 1924.

"There was, however, 5,785,241 square yards of pavement laid this year as against 5,549,713 in 1924," said Brandt. "This increase, which is equivalent to 18.51 miles of 18 foot pavement, is due to a greater width of pavement being laid this year."

Contracts already have been awarded for many new roads in various parts of the state, and work on these will be started as early in the spring as possible.

Law of Distance

The fact that smoke near a smoke stack appears to be dark and then grow lighter and lighter is a good illustration of the law of the inverse square of the distance. At one foot radius from the center of the stack, the surface exposed in any section is very small and the smoke particles very close together, and the passage of light through the particles is almost prevented. The smoke then appears black. At a two-foot radius the particles are twice as far apart and only one-quarter of the area is covered, allowing four times the light to pass through. This section is continuous, and more and more light passes through the smoke particles, causing them to become of a much lighter color against the sky background. At some finite distance from the mouth of the stack, the separation has been so great that there is practically no more interference with the light and the smoke disappears.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply with the fingers and works right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

TO DYSPEPTICS

[illegible] for 50 years is deserving of your consideration. You owe it to yourself to at least give it a trial. Such is the GROVER GRAHAM DYSPEPSIA REMEDY, compounded from the prescription of an eminent specialist who for 25 years before that used it successfully in his private practice. It brought him fame and fortune. The Grover Graham Dyspepsia Remedy is a specific for sour stomach, gastritis and all disorders of the digestive system.

It acts by digesting the food and at the same time toning and building up the diseased tissue of the stomach. Taken after a hearty meal it insures perfect assimilation of food and consequent nourishment. If you are "run down", weak, emaciated and impoverished, look to your digestion. If you derive perfect nourishment from your food you need no "invigorator". If you would eat well, sleep well, and gain flesh and strength, try it at once.

All leading druggists sell it 35c, 60c, $1.

Epworth Hall Teams Win Games

Clinton Avenue court teams experienced a whale of a successful evening. Saturday night as these three Epworth Hall outfits brushed their opponents aside by overwhelming margins. The opening and most interesting affair in which the Presbyterians and the Clinton Juniors lined up forces was taken by the Epworth youngsters who defeated their opponents by a 31 to 17 tally. R. Chipp was the chief scorer with twelve markers while Bob Graeme followed with four doubles.

In the second issue the Independents found an easy opponent in the Trinity Seniors, walloping them 46 to 14. The Trinity outfit seemed to be far from their usual form, not once putting up the stubborn battle that they usually show on the Epworth court.

But the Seniors completed the most decisive victory of the triple campaign, outflanking their foes by 45 points for a win of 59 to 14 over the Passaic Midgets. Although a rather uninteresting affair the Seniors accomplished the first victory of their strenuous three-day campaign. In this combat, Captain Slater massed a total of 31 points for the Seniors, the highest single-handed total ever scored on the Clinton Avenue court.

Grant McGinnis, playing the accompanying forward scored fifteen markers for the second honors of the affair.

Cobra Sacred to Hindu

The Hindus believe that the cobra once spread its hood as a shade over Buddha while he slept, and was blessed by the saint, who placed a mark upon its back as a warning to birds of prey not to molest it. Little headway can be made against this superstition in efforts toward eradication.

Scoring Honors Go to Tryon

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Nov. 30.—By scoring a touchdown and two additional points against Brown on Thanksgiving Day, Eddie Tryon, of Colgate, became the 1925 champion individual scorer of eastern football. His total of 111 topped Myles Lane, of Dartmouth, by three points and Carr of Syracuse by eleven.

To Lane, however, went the honor of scoring the most touchdowns, 18. Tryon got 15 but kicked 21 goals from touchdowns. Carr scored 13 touchdowns, 3 fields and 13 goals from touchdown.

The other high scorers were: Borelli, Muhlenberg, 84; Graham, Fordham, 78; Woerner, Fordham, 73; Oberlander, Dartmouth, 72; Tully, Dartmouth, 67, Wallis, Holy Cross, 66; Kittredge, Holy Cross, 66; Metzger, Georgetown, 66; O'Connor, New Hampshire, 61; Keefer, Brown, 61; Briante, N. Spencer Adams, Utility Man, a Pirate Cast-Off

Released by Pittsburgh two years ago, Spencer Adams, second baseman and utility infielder, pulled for revenge in the world series. Adams, one of the few college players on the Washington team had little opportunity to display his wares during the season with Manager Harris at second and Bluege at third, playing steadily. He got into the lineup in the final drive, however, when Harris was injured, and became a big question mark when it was doubtful whether the manager of the champions would be able to recover in time for the series.

A clever fielder and fast man on the bases, the big question was Adams' hitting ability. He settled some doubt along this line when he broke up an extra-inning game against Chicago with a single. Adams was born in Layton, Utah, June 21, 1899. After playing with the University of Utah he went to Seattle in 1922 and a year later to Pittsburgh, from where he was sent to Oakland, Cal. Washington got Adams last winter through the draft. He throws right-handed and bats left-handed.

Golf Pros' Purses Will Be Increased Next Year

Never in the history of golf has there been so much money put up for the professionals as is the case this winter. The latest heard of along this line is the $7,000 purse to be played for in the South Central Open championship at Hot Springs, Ark. This is an increase of $1,000 over last season.

The tournament will be held the fourth week in January. To date the following events have been arranged for January or a total of over $30,000 in prizes—an average of $1,000 a day.

First week in January, California Open championship, Brentwood Country club, Los Angeles, for a purse of $10,000; second week, Texas Open championship, for a purse of $6,000, and fourth week, Hot Springs' South Central Open, for a purse of $7,000.

Fighter-Loses Decision if Helped Back in Ring

William L. Muldoon, commissioner of the New York state athletic commission, at a conference of all boxing referees in the commission's jurisdiction, instructed the referees that hereafter when any boxer falls out of the ring and is assisted back by anyone he shall lose the decision. His action recalled an incident during the Dempsey-Tunney fight in 1927.

Commissioner Muldoon also warned the referees they must also enforce the rule requiring that after a knockdown the man on his feet must retire to a neutral corner before the referee begins counting.

FAMOUS "PASSION PLAY" WILL BE REPEATED.

At the Passion Play given last Friday evening in the village hall at Rifton, Miss M. Helen Freer of this city, sang "The Holy City" and "Jerusalem," accompanied by Miss E. M. Weckesser of Rhinebeck. Both numbers were given during the presentation of the play and were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience which turned out in spite of the severe weather. The Passion Play in story and picture form was given by the Rev. Otto Lang, of Oberammergau, Germany, a member of the original cast which presented the play several years ago at Oberammergau. The play was thoroughly appreciated by the large number in attendance and will be again repeated at the Eddyville M. E. Church on the evening of Friday, December 18.

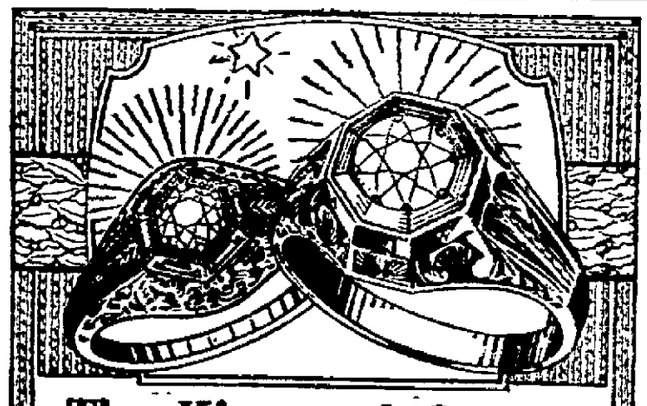

Washing Machine Was Idea of Englishman

Back in the Eighteenth century an Englishman had a bright idea of a way to save women much cruelly hard work. He invented and patented the first washing machine. It was a barrel mounted upon a frame and was turned by hand. Crude as was this first washing machine it really washed clothes clean and did it comparatively quickly. This was the first step in conserving women's strength and time instead of consuming them by the rub and rub-board method of washing clothes.

After that many developments and changes were made in the washing machine, but all of these washing machines were either hand-run, or in a few cases, driven by water motors. So it continued until about 1907, when an American conceived the idea of using an electric motor to operate the washing machine. Thus, he capped a climax started in England nearly 200 years ago.

If it took all this time to develop the electric washer, since 1907 great improvements have been made and today in the United States 105 different companies are manufacturing electric washers and approximately 3,500,000 women are using them to do the weekly washing.—Chicago Post.
